

Students Request Secret Records

resolution asking that students be able to place a hold on the record of their membership in campus organizations was passed Dec. 3 by the Assembly of the University of Minnesota Student Association.

This hold would prevent any release of this information by the Office of the Dean of Students without the student's permission.

The resolution, which originated in an MSA policy statement on academic freedom, was previously passed by the MSA Senate. It must be approved by the Dean of Students before becoming effective.

Reasonable Organizations

MSA requested the change in policy on the basis of the idea that "an organization which seems reasonable to some people may seem subversive or disloyal to others. A student's investigation of ideas must not be inhibited by his concern over the influences society may exert."

MSA Vice-President Howard Kaibel put it this way: "The University is a place separate from society where the student has the opportunity to experiment with ideas. He should have the right to suppress information about his activities if he later feels they're not such good ideas."

The dean, in consultation with his staff, now has authority to make decisions on the release of information about students, subject to review by the vice-president for educational relationships and development.

Against Closing

Both the dean and his assistant have expressed disapproval of the idea of closing student files on request. Asst. Dean Martin Snoke said he protested "this notion that we have the right to hide a particular aspect of our activity. This is contrary to the essential philosophy of democracy."

Dean E. G. Williamson said he wanted time to discuss the question "to find out just how the students propose to improve conditions. It took us five years to form our present position and we think we have some good reasons for it."

"If a member of the FBI comes to me and wants to know whether a student was a member of the DuBois Club, I'll tell him," the dean said. "Am I supposed to lie? I'm a public official and I have a public responsibility."

The Assembly also mandated the executive committee to take necessary steps toward the adoption of the proposal by the dean's office.

Rummel Co-Author

J. Francis Rummel, professor of education at the University is the co-author of "A Practical Introduction to Measurement and Evaluation," published this month in its second edition by Harper & Row, New York. Other co-authors are H. H. Remmers, professor emeritus at Purdue University, and N. L. Gage, professor of education and psychology at Stanford University.

Drama Auditions Begin Monday

Auditions for a new play, "Cassandra Singing" by David Madden, to be staged at the University Arena Theatre in early March, will be held at 7 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, in the Lab Theatre of Villard Hall.

The public is invited to try out for the play, which calls for four men and two women of college age and above. Persons who can play guitar and/or sing are especially urged to audition.

Anyone interested in such production positions as assistant director, stage manager, costumer, properties manager, sound designer and operator, and music supervisor should attend an audition session or contact Mrs. Lenore Zapell, director, at 344-1824.

Persons who wish to try out for the play but are unable to attend the scheduled auditions should also contact Mrs. Zapell.

SU Board Schedules Beach Boys Concert

The Student Union Board received a signed contract for a concert on March 5 by the Beach Boys. The concert will be held in McArthur Court.

Ticket prices will be announced in two weeks.

Alien Reports

District Director Alfred P. Urbano of the Immigration and Naturalization Service stated that the annual alien address report program usually causes a sharp rise in the number of applications for naturalization.

The law requires all aliens in the United States, with few exceptions, to report their addresses each January. Throughout the United States, almost thirty percent more applications for naturalization are received during the months of January, February and March than are received during other months. Urbano attributes this sudden rise to the Alien Address Report Program.

Aliens not required to make this report are diplomats, those accredited to certain international organizations and those who have entered temporarily as agricultural laborers.

Forms for making the reports will be available to aliens at all post offices and offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service during the month of January. Urbano indicated that aliens desiring information concerning naturalization or similar matters should obtain the forms at an office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service where personnel trained in these fields will be available to answer inquiries.
