

The New Infirmary Is a Going Concern

Equipment is the Very Latest ...

...The Staff Larger ...

...To Handle More
Students Better ...

...and New Services are Being Added.

Emerald Photographer Shoto Ushio's trusty camera caught some of the highlights of the new Health Service in action:

Top left—Frances Turner, X-Ray technician, pulls a finished print from the new "O-Omat" developer, which will process prints in ten minutes.

Bottom right—Larry Standifer, the Health Center's new registered therapist, inspects one of the new whirlpools which be a part of the new physical therapy services to be given by the center.
