

Christian Scientist Claims Concepts Being Challenged

By CAROL LOWERY
Staff Writer

Mrs. Lenore Hanks, Portland member of the Board of Christian Science Lecturers in Boston, spoke to the public on the "Mythology of Mind" last night in the SU.

She emphasized that this is an age of "exceptionally vigorous challenge to all concepts . . . including theology." Perhaps a most up-to-date example would be the fact that no heaven and hell were discovered by either of the Gemini rockets.

Theologians, said Mrs. Hanks, are demanding that Christianity be made fully relevant to the world today. She offered this statement by Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Science faith, as a starting point in her discussion.

Bowl Teams To Match Wits

Alpha Tau Omega and Collier Hall will team up today against Chi Psi and Sweetser Hall on the University College Bowl on Private Line 3 at 9 p.m.

PL-3, the University's unique closed circuit television system, can be found on channel 3 on the dorm TVs and channel 11 on televisions equipped with the ABAR cable.

ATO, Collier vs. Chi Psi, Sweetser is the fifth match in the first round of competition in this single elimination tournament. First round winners so far include Kappa Sigma, Carson IV; Theta Chi, Pi Beta Phi; Phi Delta Theta, University House; and Sigma Nu, Robbins Hall.

The College Bowl features a live audience and the public is invited to come to the studio and see the show in person. PL-3 studios are located on the third floor of Villard Hall on campus. Seating is on a first come, first served basis and the doors open at 8:30 p.m.

"Matter is neither a thing nor a person, but merely the objective supposition of spirits opposite." Mrs. Eddy's contemporaries scoffed her, but Mrs. Hanks suggests that the atomic age should be more agreeable to this new approach to scientific investigation.

God is All

"Matter has no real existence at all. God's spirit is all." Matter is the myth that produces all sin, disease, and trouble. The science of health is that science of overcoming the fatal misconceptions about the nature of matter.

Mrs. Eddy was also convinced through spiritual healing in her childhood and later life that "there is no life, truth, and no intelligence in matter." Elaborating on this, Mrs. Hanks explained that we possess a spiritual individuality: our essence is not conceived and sustained by matter, but by God.

Matter Not Destroyed

Matter is a way of seeing things, but "life and intelligence are wholly spiritual . . . we don't destroy matter, we prove its nothingness. (It follows that) disease is mistaken thinking that takes the form of wrong doing."

To the degree that we follow Christ, said Mrs. Hanks, we can use His power. Through his spiritual convictions Christ could bring about miraculous cures, and walk through walls and people as if they didn't exist—and they don't in the physical sense, Mrs. Hanks insists.

"Matter is a false conception of mistaken thinking. The spiritual is real and eternal; the material is unreal and temporal."

She concluded by summarizing that "man is not material; he is spiritual."

Junior Weekend Committee Sign-up

The Junior Class is now accepting petitions for positions on Junior Weekend committees.

The event includes the Spring Prom April 23rd and Mother's Weekend, May 7.

Petitions may be obtained and filed in room 301 SU. The deadline is Jan. 24.

No restrictions are being imposed as to academic level. Anyone interested in working on the committees may apply.

Persons are needed to man the following committees: Spring Prom, luncheon, Mother's Weekend, finance, publicity, traditions, Queen selection, and Spring Sing.

One Act Plays to Hold Auditions

Auditions for roles in a number of one-act plays will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, at the University. The plays will be presented by the University's play direction class.

Tryouts begin at 7:30 p.m. each evening in the lab theatre (Pocket Playhouse) of Villard Hall.

The public is invited to audition for the parts, which call for persons of college age and above. No experience is necessary to audition.

Persons interested in auditioning who are unable to attend the scheduled try-outs may contact one of the directors: Mike Willoughby, 342-2531; Jim Merrow, 342-2531; Sue Powell, 343-1138; Doug Finney, 345-9435.

College graduates, new to Ford Motor Company, often comment on the comparative youth of many of our top executives. The example of these men in key positions is evidence that being young is no handicap at Ford to those who possess ability and ambition. In fact, new employees can expect challenging assignments while still participating in our College Graduate Program. This means an opportunity to demonstrate special skills and initiative while still learning the practical, day-to-day aspects of the business. Consider the experience of Jim Weston, who has been with Ford Motor Company for three years.

Jim came to Ford in February, 1963. His first assignment was in marketing analysis where his principal job was evaluating present and potential dealer locations. For a time, he also gained experience in the actual purchasing of dealer locations. Later, an assignment forecasting sales and market potential with Ford Division's Truck Sales Programming Department gave him the background he needed to qualify for his present position. His job today? Only three years out of college, Jim is now a senior financial analyst in Ford Division's Business Management Department.

Jim Weston's experience is not unusual. At Ford Motor Company, your twenties can be challenging and rewarding years. Like to learn more about it? Talk to our representative when he visits your campus.
