

New Council to Review All Greek Infractions

The IFC unanimously voted Thursday to create a "Joint Tribunal-Judicial Council" to review infractions of IFC or Panhellenic rules involving both a fraternity and a sorority. Decisions of guilt will be handled separately by the IFC and Panhellenic organizations. One purpose will be "to prevent decisions and sanctions based on 'one side of the story.'"

In other IFC business, Richard A. Sorenson, assistant Dean of Men, described an exchange program (NOIB) in which a male freshman or sophomore University student, not necessarily a fraternity member, is selected to study in a business school in The Netherlands for a year.

The student must pay for his own transportation, his books, and tuition are paid for by NOIB. Dean Sorenson said applications should be turned in as soon as possible. Persons desiring more information on the program may contact him at ext. 1621.

The Inter-Fraternity Council will elect its officers on April 9 at its weekend retreat at Yachats, on the Oregon coast. The IFC representatives will also discuss the IFC's problems with Dean of Men Robert Bowlin and Associate Dean of Students Francis B. Nickerson.

Bonus Concert Slated Saturday

The first of the Little Concert Series bonus concerts will feature Tom Robin Harris, visiting member of the music faculty at Willamette University, on the organ. He will be assisted by the University Brass Choir, under the direction of Ira Lee, associate professor of music.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Music School auditorium. Admission will be by Little Concert Series season ticket or by individual tickets purchased at the door at $2.50 for adults and $2 for students.

SU Board to Hear Ideas For Its Own Improvement

The SU Board will open hearings at 3 p.m. Monday to hear proposals for changes in its structure and representation.

Board Chairman Dick Lawrence announced the scheduled hearings after the Board's first spring term meeting Wednesday. Recent controversy over the Board's handling of the Terrace problem, and the recurring questions about representation of University schools on the Board have encouraged the hearings.

The hearings, informal in nature, will be held at 3 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday of next week. The room number will be posted.

Anyone wishing to make proposals in the make-up or representation on the Board must first pick a copy of the present perpetuation plan—which has been used for 16 years—and should understand that plan completely before formulating any proposals.

Lawrence emphasized this point: "We want everyone to understand what we're doing now, so they can make some intelligent suggestions."

Copies of the Perpetuation Plan are available in room 301 of the SU.

Earlier this month, the Student Political Union (SPU), an aggregate of representatives from campus political groups, banded together and objected to the Board's rules limiting use of the Terrace for political activities.

And enrollment increases in various schools have raised questions about their representation: One school at the University has two representatives for 7,000 students; another school has one representative for 160 students; and another has one representative for 500 students.
