

Golas of Liberia Topic of Lecture

Warren L. d'Azevedo, chairman of the department of sociology and anthropology at the University of Nevada, will lecture on his research with the Gola peoples of Liberia at 4 p.m. today in 231 Commonwealth.

D'Azevedo received his Ph.D. from Northwestern University where he participated in the program of African Studies. During 1956-57, d'Azevedo worked in the Western Province of Liberia, primarily with the Gola people.

He will return to this area in August with support from the Social Science Research Council. He has published extensively on Liberia and adjacent parts of West Africa.

His visit to the University is sponsored by the African Studies Committee of the Institute of International Studies and Overseas Administration.

FSC Elects Staff, Discusses Plans

The Faculty Student Committee to Stop the War in Viet Nam had their first meeting of spring term Thursday night. Prospective plans were discussed and election of officers was held. John Howard, assistant professor of sociology, was elected faculty co-chairman and Bill Meyer, a junior in political science, was elected student co-chairman.

Definite actions were discussed for a show of solidarity with the current Buddhist demonstrations against the Ky regime in South Viet Nam.

Interested students and faculty are asked to contact either Howard or Meyer for information.

Selective Service Corrections Made

Eugene Selective Service office hours are 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, not 8 to 4:30, as was erroneously printed in the April 15 Emerald.

Application forms for the Selective Service College Qualification test may be picked up at the office during those hours. The office is located at 1047 Willamette Street.

Viet Nam . . .

I say these things as an American who is revolted at what we have allowed ourselves to become when we can sit silently before TV sets and watch each day the impersonal, inhuman slaughter by Americans of Vietnamese people who want little more than a better life for themselves and control of their own country.

Do we realize what this is doing to us?

U.S. bombers may indeed bomb North Viet Nam "back to the Stone Age" and the Viet Cong may one day be totally obliterated by massive bombings and hundreds of thousands of U.S. troops.

But in doing so, as our government and all of us should think about, the Saigon "government" would not be winning, and the U.S. actions would go down in history (as they may already) as some of the most inhuman butchery of civilian populations in a civil conflict since the Nazis and Italians aided Franco in the brutal, almost mechanical crushing of the valiant, but tragically ill-equipped and poorly-trained Loyalists in the Spanish Civil War of 1936-39.

We would also be destroying forever the already faint memory among other peoples of our own revolutionary past and ideals.

Yet, all this need not be. Policies are creations of men. They can be changed as they were made, if enough people will it. That should be our task at this moment, before we are totally brutalized by the counter-revolutionary slaughter we are immersed in in Viet Nam.

Camus once wrote as a similar point in the Algerian war, "I know that the great tragedies of history often fascinate men with approaching horror. Paralyzed, they cannot make up their minds to do anything but wait. So they wait, and one day the Gorgon devours them. But I should like to convince you that the spell can be broken, that there is only an illusion of impotence, that strength of heart, intelligence and courage are enough to stop fate and sometimes reverse it. One has merely to will this, not blindly, but with a firm and reasoned will."

This is our task. Responsibility for the horrors of what is being done in Viet Nam by both sides, but especially the U.S., and for what those actions are doing to the people of this nation—and for what even more serious events may ensue, which may do violence to our nation and all humanity, rests with us. Even those who already speak out and act against the war; especially those who, though opposed, still remain silent.

For, what ever the ultimate results, we shall all be responsible together, and each will have to stand and declare what he has done and what he has said.

Isn't there more each of us can do, so that at that time we need add nothing as explanation for our actions?

have shown the most gratitude to our President for his benevolent generosity. Since most of the criticism against our President's program of bringing prosperity and goodwill to Southeast Asia has come from the colleges, it seems only fair to phase out various forms of federal aid to education. It seems especially prudent in view of the fact that few college students are voters.

This "aid cut" would also have two side benefits. It is reasonable to estimate that of a pool of 600,000 students receiving federal loans, 300,000 would have to leave college, at least temporarily, if the loans were phased out. A conservative estimate would provide that at least 200,000 of these students could be reclassified I-A, and inducted into the armed forces of the United States. This would immediately provide an adequate pool of military personnel from which to provide aid to our Vietnamese friends. This ready pool of manpower would, of course, eliminate the need for testing and the evaluation of students class standing, which have recently become controversial.

In short, it should be readily apparent that education is not necessarily beneficial to a free society, but can actually become harmful.

Education has caused students to think, which has in turn caused them to criticize the obviously correct policies of our President. By now it should be readily apparent to all reasonable prudent men that the actions of our President are sensible and just, and thus deserve the support of all loyal Americans.
