The Junior Weekend event for Tuesday is the Millrace Olympics.

- 3:30 Canoe Joust (men and women).
- 4:00 Tug-of-war competing teams: Gamma-Sweetser; Spiller-Alpha Xi Delta; Phi Kappa Psi-Kappa Alpha Theta; Henderson-Sheldon; Chi Psi-Delta Delta Delta; Kappa Sigma-Alpha Gamma Delta; Chi Phi-Alpha Omicron Pi; Alpha Hall-Carson III; Beta Theta Pi-Delta Gamma; Theta Chi-Alpha Chi Omega;

Alpha Tau Omega - McClain

Hall; Sigma Nu-Sigma Kappa; Sigma Chi-Gamma Phi Beta; Dyment Hall-McClure Hall; Tau Kappa Epsilon-Chi Omega; Phi Kappa Alpha-Alpha Delta Pi; Phi Delta Theta-Alpha Phi; Boynton Hall-Morton Hall; Schafer Hall-Young Hall; Clark Hall-Wilcox Hall; Delta Chi-Pi Beta Phi; Delta Tau Delta-Kappa Kappa Gamma; DeBusk Hall-Hawthorne Hall; Adams Hall-Caswell Hall.

Other activities, some traditional and some new, are planned for this week before Mothers' Weekend.

Some traditions will be observed throughout the whole week. These are "laws" that prohibit walking on the grass and smoking in the old campus area. Another "law" is that no one except seniors will be allowed to sit on the Senior Bench.

Wednesday is the day of the Slave Auction, new this year. It will be held at 4 p.m. at the Free Speech Platform. Two girls from each sorority—an active member and a freshman—will be auctioned off to the guys who bid the most Coke and Tab bottle caps. The slaves will have their faces covered during the auction to keep their identity unknown. High bidders will be entitled to one hour's work or an evening date from their slave.

Thursday is Bermuda Day, making Bermudas the proper campus attire.

Friday is Hello Day — the day to say "Hello" to everyone you meet on Hello Walk in front of the SU.

Traditional 'Weekend' Dates Back to 1890's

Junior Weekend originally began around the 1890's with orations presented by the junior class on the steps of Deady Hall. By 1905, each junior class had its own flag, and they were flown from Deady Hall and Skinner's Butte on oration day. But the sophomore class attempted to tear down the flags, and all-day battles soon developed between the two classes.

In 1929 the Water Carnival—swimming and canoe races—was originated to stop the sophomore-junior struggles. The swimming races were in three divisions: women, non-varsity swimmers, and varsity swimmers.

By 1939 the Water Carnival became the Millrace Olympics. The highlight of the events was the tug-of-war between the freshman and sophomore classes: if the sophomores won, the freshmen had to continue wearing their green beanies. If the frosh won, they became sophomores by running the gauntlet (hack paddle line) and burning their bean-ies in a bonfire.

World War II industrialization and highway relocation ruined the clean running water of the Millrace, but this didn't stop the Millrace Olympics. In fact, the canoe joust and the tug-of-war have become the traditional events of competition.

The next Millrace Olympic events are scheduled for May 3, with paired living units competing for the symbolic olive branch.

Artist to Speak On Own Work

An artist who is always concerned "with finding new meanings in the relation of man to objects and to his environment..." will give a lecture Monday at the University.

James McGarrell, painter and graphic artist, will discuss his own works in a public lecture at 8 p.m. in 106 Lawrence.

The artist has followed the masters of graphic arts closely and his etchings reveal his study of Rembrandt, Morandi, and Matisse.

McGarrell took up printmaking as another means of expressing the ideas and emotions in his paintings and drawings.

DuShane Re-Elected To Regional Post

Donald M. DuShane, dean of student affairs at the University, has been re-elected regional vice president of the Deans of Students of the Northwest Region of the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators.

DuShane has just returned from Washington, D.C., where he attended a planning session of the executive committee of the NASPA.

Traffic Story Corrected

There were errors in the Student Traffic Court appeal case as reported in the Student Court article, page 3 of Friday's Emerald.

The $10 fine was imposed not for the defendant's delinquency in paying three $2 parking tickets, but for the display of a staff parking sticker on the defendant's, a student, car.

The three tickets led to the discovery of the sticker misuse, however, as stickers and license numbers are checked as a matter of routine.

The defendant did not petition for a hearing in Traffic Court, he petitioned for a waiver of the $10 fine. His petition was denied, and he was summoned to Traffic Court for his sticker violation, which is a violation of the Campus Parking Regulations set up by the University under the authority of the State Board of Higher Education. The Physical Plant is the authority delegated to enforce these rules.

As such, the $10 fine was outside the jurisdiction of Traffic Court, and therefore cannot be considered a sanction under the Student Conduct Code.

Since the fine is not a sanction, the sanction of disciplinary probation and revocation of driving privileges imposed by Traffic Court did not constitute double jeopardy.

The case could have been tried originally in Student Court under a violation of Section I.B. 2.c. of the Code—misuse of University identification cards. It was tried instead in Traffic Court for three reasons:

- Under Section II.C. 4.a. of the Code, Traffic Court has original jurisdiction over all violations of the Campus Parking Information and Regulations;
- The violation is specifically covered in Permits Section 5 of the Campus Parking Information and Regulations; and
- Under Section II.C. 4.c. (2) of the Code, Traffic Court is allowed to impose sanctions permitted by Section I.B. 3.f. of the Code.
