

Plant Superintendent Announces Retirement

Wilbur Weed, superintendent of the Physical Plant, announced his retirement last week. Superintendent for 15 years, Weed's area of responsibility has included the campus mailmen, the delivery service crews, the campus police, the janitors and watchmen, nurserymen and groundsmen, and many other men involved in the physical maintenance of the University.

Weed joined the staff at the University in July, 1951, as nurseryman, was named landscape architect in 1953, and has been superintendent of the Physical Plant since 1958.

Weed studied landscape and architecture at Oregon Agricultural College, now Oregon State University, and graduated in 1921. He joined his father in the operation of Weed's Landscape Nursery in Beaverton, and later worked for many years with the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation as a landscape architect on Nevada and California projects.

His professional training as an architect, and the experience gained at large government engineering projects, produced a combination of architectural and engineering skills that have created a problem in finding a replacement.

His resignation was effective April 30.

WILBUR WEED, superintendent of the University's Physical Plant for the last 15 years, has retired at the age of 66. His retirement was effective April 30.

Senate Candidates To Outline Views In Dorm Tonight

Candidates for the ASUO Senate will be presenting their platforms to students today.

All Senate candidates have been invited to present their platforms at a discussion in Spiller Hall at 8 p.m. today. A discussion will follow the presentations, and any student may attend. Either ASUO President Steve Goldschmidt or Vice-President Tom Clark will be at the meeting to moderate the discussion.

Senate candidates with freshman constituents will present their platforms at 6:30 p.m. today in the lobby of Carson Hall.

Council to Hear Reform Reports

The Student-Faculty Council will meet at 4 p.m. today in the Student Union to discuss two topics held over from the last session. The meeting is open to all interested persons.

All of the items under consideration deal with aspects of curriculum reform.

One report from the ASUO curriculum committee deals with a board of appeals for major disagreement over grades between faculty and students. Robert Holmes, sophomore in anthropology, explained that there is now no appeal when a student thinks a grade is unfair.

Pass-or-fail physical education grades for non-majors is the second topic. It was postponed at the last meeting so that representatives from the PE department could be invited to attend.

Keith Skelton, associate professor of business law, at the last meeting gave notice of a motion to establish a Council committee to study the feasibility of pass-or-fail grades in other areas.

Blake to Discuss Academic Reform

Academic reform at all levels of the University's educational system will be discussed by a candidate for state superintendent of public instruction, Walter S. Blake, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Union Ballroom.

Blake had been dean of students and an associate professor of education at Willamette University since 1958, before resigning recently to run for the state post.

Blake's talk is sponsored by Young Americans for Freedom.

Goldrich to Speak To Committee

Daniel Goldrich, associate professor of political science, will speak at 4:30 p.m. today to the University Howard-Porter Committee.

Goldrich's speech, to be held in the Student Union, will revolve around the current campaign and its needs. Goldrich, who has been directing the Porter campaign in the Crow - Veneta area, will give his first-hand account of the primary campaign.
