

Combo With the Choral

A NEW INSTRUMENTAL COMBO began rehearsing this week for the performance of a folk mass June 5, at St. Mary's Episcopal Church in Eugene. The combo will join the University Chorale in presenting the unique musical event. Rehearsing are William Hughes, freshman in music, left, bass; James Parcel, sophomore music major, center, banjo; and Loren Southworth, freshman liberal arts major, right, banjo. H. Royce Saltzman, right, of the School of Music faculty, will direct the folk mass.

Students Needed As Big Brothers

Men students interested in serving next fall as a big brother to a boy who is without a close and meaningful relationship with his father and who needs a mature, masculine figure with whom to identify, are urged to fill out an application for the program now.

Some 50 men students are needed for fall term. A program of orientation and training will precede the assignment of little brothers.

During 1965-66 some 30 university men participated in this program. Primarily preventive, as opposed to corrective, the program attempts to provide guidance through example.

For further information call chairman David Sulkosky, ext. 1858.

Last Emerald To Be Today

Today's Emerald is the last issue for this term and the academic year. Publication will resume Tuesday, June 21.

Library Exhibits Yesteryear Items

Broadsides, posters, cartoons, and student publications from former years at the University make up a current exhibition in the library entitled "Signs of the Times."

Some of the items suggest that students of yesteryear had somewhat the same ideas and interests as students do today.

The exhibition will be in the library through July 29.
