

CATHERINE LAURIS
New position

Lauris to Head University Books

The Office of University Relations has announced the appointment of Catherine Lauris as managing editor of the University of Oregon Books.

In addition to her work with the Press, Mrs. Lauris is known for her work with the University Bureau of Business Research, editing of the "Oregon Business Review," and co-authoring a volume on public libraries in Oregon with Mary E. Phillips.

Mrs. Lauris has been on the Eugene City Council since 1957. She has served as president of the council three times. Mrs. Lauris is also chairman of the concept committee for the proposed Lane County Auditorium.

Library Acquires Flynn Papers

The personal papers of John T. Flynn, nationally-known journalist, radio commentator, and writer, have been placed in the University Library by his son, Thomas D. Flynn of New York City.

The collection includes manuscripts, revisions, and notes concerning 14 of Flynn's books, as well as copies of his magazine articles. There are also files of his radio scripts, addresses, and correspondence relating to his public activities.

Flynn was at one time a columnist for the New Republic and from 1937 to 1942 he was associate editor of Colliers magazine. He is best known as the author of "Country Squire in the White House," an analysis of the policies of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Watercolors Win

Tracy C. Sabin, a high school senior from Edmonds, Wash., has won the "Old Oregon" visual arts award competition. This annual award provides the winner with a $2,000 grant for attending the University.

Sabin entered three watercolor paintings in the contest. He competed with high school seniors throughout the Northwest for the award which is sponsored by the University alumni magazine.

1966 First Week Beats 1965 Total

Summer Enrollment Up

At the end of the first week enrollment for summer session at the University has already exceeded last year's final total.

Students have until Friday to register.

The present total is 5,074. Last year the final total was 5,006.

Registrar Clifford Constance said the final enrollment should exceed considerably the 5,525 estimated and budgeted for. He expects around 5,900. Dean Paul B. Jacobson of the School of Education estimates 6,000.

Constance breaks those enrolled so far down this way (figures in parenthesis are last year's final totals):

Men 2,874 (2,817), women 2,200 (2,189).

Special students 127 (210), freshmen 210 (221), sophomores 338 (378), juniors 470 (470), seniors 698 (641), graduate students 3,231 (3,086).

No previous college attendance 154, from other colleges 1,340, previously at University 3,580 (3,506).

Enrolled in eight week session 3,624 (3,319), enrolled in 11 week session 920 (628), all others 2,719 (2,939).

State Requests Federal Funds

The State of Oregon has requested a federal grant of $85,000 to initiate a state technical services program for Oregon business and industry.

If approved this program would include a series of seminars, publications, and workshops at the University. They would cover transportation, logistics, marketing, exporting, and management of small businesses, parks, and recreation.

The grant would also include money for progress at Oregon State University, the Division of Continuing Education, and the State Department of Geology and Mineral Industries.

QUICK QUIZ:

How many hours will the average student spend reading text books to complete a typical four-year college course? (Check one only)

- | | | |
|-------------------------------------|-------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| ☐ 560 hours | ☐ 5280 hours | ☐ 220 hours |
| ☐ 1550 hours | ☐ 1440 hours | ☐ 400 hours |

READING DYNAMICS CAN HELP !

If you checked 1440 hours, you checked the very minimum . . . one book per course at 250 words-per-minute, the typical person's average reading speed.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE 480 HOURS?

You're guaranteed, or your money back, to read three times faster after Reading Dynamics training. This means 480 hours; 1440 hours divided by three. Each book you're required to read you'll read in one-third the time when you're a Reading Dynamics graduate. And MOST READING DYNAMICS GRADUATES CAN READ UP TO FIVE TIMES FASTER! You'll read at least 750 words-per-minute and probably 1500 words-per-minute after the Reading Dynamics course.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN TO YOU?

This means your college career will provide three times as much opportunity . . . opportunity for campus activities, extra-curricular training, social life, outside research . . . or just more sleep! College means more than a degree—college is the floor plan for your entire future. Prepare for it. Learn more about Reading Dynamics. Attend the free demonstrations, or call 344-3154.
