Integration Basis For Housing Funds

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (CPS)—The University of Louisville laid an ultimatum before the school's all-white fraternities and sororities last week (September 23): stop discriminating against Negroes or face expulsion from campus.

University President Philip Davidson announced the regulation in response to the Greeks' requests for housing construction funds. He agreed to loan 75 per cent of building costs and to provide land only to non-discriminatory fraternities and sororities.

"Fraternities and sororities need help to survive on this campus," President Lawrence said.

Dean of students David Lawrence said he foresaw no problems in fraternity compliance with the ruling. But three days after the announcement, fraternity and sorority leaders had no comment.

In another case, the University of Colorado prohibited discrimination in fraternities and subsequently suspended privileges of Sigma Chi. When the national chapter filed suit, a U.S. district court upheld the University's action. University President Arthur S. Flemming, in co-operation with OSU President James Jensen, has been investigating Sigma Chi's membership practices on campus.

Administrators at the Universities of California, Wisconsin and Minnesota have also warned fraternities against discrimination.

Student Offered Notable Film Fare

Some of the world's best film entertainment will be featured during the 1965-66 Film Society program at the University.

Foreign films, ranging from a French anti-war film to a Japanese version of the classic Russian proletarian comedy, American films of the 1930's, and screen versions of great theater classics are all included in this year's repertoire.

All foreign language films will be shown in their original language with subtitles in English.

A bonus offering this year is a special series of eight programs of "underground films." The series of contemporary avant-garde films has been specially arranged by film critic Sheldon Renan, author of a forthcoming book on underground movies.

The underground films will be shown on Friday evenings during November and February. They will be free to holders of season subscriptions in the Film Society.

Only Film Society members may attend the society programs. Membership cards may be purchased, with a full season membership of 16 admissions for $5, and five admissions for $2.

Advance ticket sales will be conducted by mail only. Prospective members may obtain brochures with application forms from the University Theatre box office or the Film Society secretary, Robert McCollough, 342-1411, ext. 2381.

Opening the season on Sunday will be "Key Largo." This American film of 1948 stars Humphrey Bogart in the role of a hard-bitten ex-Army officer who finds himself by chance on one of the Florida Keys which is the rendezvous of a gang of counterfeiters.

The drama of intrigue and suspense has been highly praised, especially for its direction by John Huston.

Other films in the series will include a Buster Keaton comedy, "Sherlock Jr.," "Los Olvidados," a savage drama of degraded juveniles filmed in Mexico; "The Overcoat," a small, delicate Russian tragedy based on Gogol's famous story, "The Guest," Harold Pinter's drama "The Caretaker" transferred to the screen.

Such short films as "Schmeerguntz," a remarkable record of the 20th century woman, and "The Chicken," a delightful bit of French whimsy, will be shown during each program.
