

Board Opposes Budget-Control Change

The Student Publications Board has asked University President Arthur S. Flemming not to give semi-final budget control over University student publications to the ASUO Senate.

Flemming plans to give the Senate the authority to recommend to him the final budgets for all student programs under the Student Union and Educational Activities (SU-EdAc) budget.

That includes student publications.

The resolution passed by the Publications Board says that transfer of such control to the Senate could result in a loss of freedom for student publications at the University.

The resolution proposes one of two possibilities:

- The budget of the Publications Board be kept under the jurisdiction of the SU-EdAc Budget Board.

- The Budget Board or the Publications Board be allowed to submit a budget to Flemming for publications, in addition to the budget submitted by the Senate.

Emerald Editor Phil Semas, who proposed the resolution, said he thought there might be other alternatives besides those two. He added that the main purpose of the resolution was to get some alternatives proposed to the president.

Roger Leo, a member of the board and also member of the Senate, agreed that there was a danger. Both he and Semas said that giving the Senate that kind of control could result in financial reprisals against the Emerald for criticizing student government.

The resolution was passed unanimously.

In other action:

- The Pub Board approved a motion to take no action on "React," a publication of the Students for a Democratic Society, and a SWINE publication of a variable title.

- Approval was given for the publication of "Greek Focus."

- A committee composed of two students and one faculty member was set up to investigate the various problems of four yearly informational publications, "Orienter," "Student Handbook," "Pigger's Guide," and "Evaluation Handbook."

Japanese Art Subject of Talk

Japan and one of its master painters are the subjects of two separate presentations at the University tonight.

Robert Moses, authority on Japanese art from Freer Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., will give a public lecture illustrated with his own slides on the subject, "The Other Side of Tohaku," at 8 p.m. in 106 Lawrence.

Tohaku is considered to be one of the greatest masters of painting in Japanese history.

A color film of Japan will be shown at 8 p.m. in 150 Science. The program will be presented by Arthur M. Dewey.

Dewey has filmed the Japanese theatre, the temples and shrines, the festivals, the Japanese in the occupations and industry, and schools.

Paintings Donated

Two paintings of Collier Glacier by a member of the Collier family, Jane Collier Anderson of Illinois, have been presented to Collier Hall.

Collier Hall is named for George H. Collier, first professor of physics at the University, 1879-1895.

Collier Glacier, Oregon's largest glacier in the Three Sisters region, was also named for Professor Collier, who made an ascent of the Three Sisters in 1880.
