

Fraternities Start Spring Rushing

Plans for Interfraternity Council's spring rush received final approval at IFC's business meeting Wednesday night.

The rush program will begin at 7 p.m. today with an orientation meeting in Gerlinger Annex. Interested persons will be able to sign up for rush at this time, and again Sunday, April 15, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. Early arrival is urged, as those who arrive first will get the best tables.

Three rush dates are set for Saturday and two for Sunday. The Saturday sessions will be held from 1 to 2 p.m., 2:30 to 3:30 p.m., and 4 to 5 p.m. Those on Sundays will be from 1 to 2 p.m. and 2:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Rush this term will be informal, so rushees may wear campus clothes, with the exception of sweatshirts.

In new business Wednesday night, IFC delegates approved by unanimous vote, a measure supporting President Arthur Flemming's policy statement regarding discrimination by fraternity or sorority organizations.

The policy states that organizations shall not resort to selective practices for religious or racial reasons, and shall be completely autonomous of national policy in the selection of house members and of criteria for selection of such members.

The four-step proposal accepted Wednesday will (1) give unqualified support to the policy; (2) support member houses in complying with the policy; (3) encourage the Panhellenic organization to take a similar stand, and (4) form a joint IFC-Panhellenic committee to investigate the results of the policy.

Roger Smith, representing the Order of the O, spoke briefly on the problem of having fraternity houses accommodate the Order in its regular meetings. Problems in the past have arisen due to inability of houses to prepare meals for such meetings without interfering with their own dining schedules, Smith said.

Smith stated that the Order will meet sans executive group soon to prepare a working schedule in which 'O' meetings will be managed at a pre-arranged date by alternate houses, thereby allowing the host house to prepare for meetings in advance.

Newly chosen IFC committee chairmen are Ben Kalb, publications; Warner Karshner, political opportunities; Tom Connelly, public relations; Glen Gilbert, rush; and Jeff Hays, Greek Focus.

Drive Planned Against Bill

ASUO leaders say they plan to conduct a petition campaign today against Representative Leo Thornton's bill on campus speakers.

ASUO President Lee Bollinger said petitions would be available in front of the Student Union and in front of Commonwealth Hall.

Thornton's bill will probably come up on the House floor Friday morning.

HUAC Charges Under Attack

The House Committee on Un-American Activities charges against the peace march in San Francisco came under attack at the University Wednesday.

University student Bill Meyer, who has been involved in co-ordinating plans for the march at the University called the HUAC accusation a "tactic of the Johnson administration to discredit the largest, broadest scope demonstration against the war the country has ever seen."

"Everyone knows that the American Communist Party is against the war in Viet Nam, and they will most likely be participants in the march, but to say that the expected 1 million participants are Communists or dupes is absurd," Meyer said.

"The Spring Mobilization is a coalition of peace, labor, religious, civil rights, and student educational groups throughout the United States who are opposed to our present foreign policy in Viet Nam and Southeast Asia," Meyer concluded.

Journalism Major Wins Scholarship

Chi Psi Fraternity awarded a $300 scholarship to Tom Cooper, a junior in journalism this week. He was awarded the scholarship on the basis of his academic achievement, leadership qualities, and his outstanding service as rush chairman of the Oregon chapter.

This scholarship is awarded annually to one member of each of the fraternity's 26 chapters.

Hippies ...

inal chalk artists "just stepped back and watched," according to Mrs. Feldman.

She said the students who were gathered around broke up into small groups and began discussing such things as sub-cultures, long hair, Viet Nam, and the place of foreigners in American culture.

Another student, John Moore, said the students will probably continue the drawing for the next few days "because it's got people talking."

SDS cleaned up the track that had been dropped around the area and by 6:30 p.m. the front of the SU was clean except for a few drawings.

At about 7 p.m. a Eugene city fire truck came over to see if they could wash the drawings off with a hose, but they decided they couldn't do it without a lot of trouble and declined to help.

Mrs. Feldman said the most significant thing was the coalition that developed between SDS and the Black Student Association.

Both Jack Cross, acting SU director, and Francis Nickerson, associate dean of students, said there was no rule against what the SDS members did and no basis for charges of defacing property.

Nickerson said the Feldmans had a case in a downtown court for assault if they were pushed or had water thrown on them.

Cross said he was encouraged by "the active reaction by other members of the student body" against the SDS members.

"It is encouraging to me to see that others feel something for the building," he said, "and there was more free speech and dialogue going on down there than there has been for a long time." Most of the people involved said they were happy at the way the incident turned out, but the original pushing and shoving still left a bad taste for some.

"Everybody wants to play cop," said Lee Feldman, after he had been pushed by the fraternity man. "They want to police the world. They want to police the sidewalks."

ASUO Will Decide Student Award Fate

In its 6:30 p.m. meeting today in the Student Union the ASUO Senate will decide the fate of two student-financed $1,000 awards which were proposed by former ASUO President Henry Drummonds as a means of improving teaching quality at the University.

The Senate will also make its final recommendations on the budgeting of student fees before the budget is sent on to University President Arthur Flemming.

Committee to Hold Public Hearing

The Student Conduct Committee will hold a public hearing on the proposed addition of a subpoena power to the Student Code today at 6:30 p.m. in 266 Commonwealth.

The committee will accept written as well as oral comments on the desirability of adopting the proposal.

The subpoena power would allow students to be subpoenaed for testimony before the Student Court or the Student Conduct Committee. Any member of the University community is invited to attend.
