

1969 Duck Cagers Unveiled In Mac Court Game Tonight

Oregon basketball fans get their first look at the sophomore-dominated Duck varsity squad tonight at McArthur Court in the second annual Varsity-Frosh game.

The contest, sponsored by the Oregon Club, gets underway at 8 p.m. Unlike last year's series premiere, this year's game will be a regulation contest. Tickets are $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for all students.

Tonight's game is the only home appearance by the Webfoots until Dec. 7, when Oregon opens its home season against Nebraska. The Ducks officially open the season on Nov. 30 at Salt Lake City against Utah, then move to Greensboro, N.C., and two games with last year's NCAA runner-up, North Carolina, on Dec. 2 and 3.

Head Coach Steve Belko is anxious to see his young squad under game conditions prior to the season opener at Utah.

Tonight's game might serve to select Oregon's starting lineup for the Utah opener. At present, Belko has 11 players battling for starting berths, seven of them sophomores. Only guard Billy Gaskins, second leading scorer on the team last year as a sophomore, appears to have earned a starting berth.

Sophomores fighting for starting jobs are forwards John Green, Bill Drozdiak, Larry Holliday and Len Jackson; center Stan Love; and guards Carlton Slater and Rick Brosterhous. Junior lettermen Jim Henry (forward), Glen Campbell (center) and Bob Rodgers (guard), along with senior two-year letterman guard Rick Abrahamson, are also struggling for the opening slots.

Also assured of seeing plenty of action tonight are sophomore forwards Rodney Wulff and Dave Trukositz and sophomore guard Randy Olson.

Coach Frank Arnold's Frosh club, still minus three players from the freshman football team, will floor a club which should give the varsity a good fight. "We don't have as much depth as the Varsity," Arnold said, "or the quickness. But a lot will depend on how the players react to the crowd — if they're not tense, they'll do a good job."

Arnold said that his starting lineup would consist of 6-9 Rusty Blair, from San Luis Obispo, Calif., and 6-6 Steve Smith, from Sacramento, Calif., on the front line. In backcourt, Arnold said, will be 6-3 Mike Ela, 6-2 Ken Strand, and 6-5 Steve Shaw. Also seeing plenty of action on the Frosh squad will be guard Mark Bailey and forward Ernie Nedds.

Soccer Squads Vie For League Honors

Oregon Soccer Club teams face three, weekend games which could give two of the squads league championships or at least first place standings.

Saturday the Mallards host Lewis and Clark College at 1 p.m. on the football practice field in Oregon Intercollegiate Soccer Association play. Following the Mallard-Pioneer match, Oregon's third team will face the L&C second team in its first competition of the season.

Sunday the Oregon Ducks will seek to clinch at least a tie for the Portland Soccer Association first half title when they meet Portland International at Delta Park at 2 p.m. A win by Germania over St. Patrick's in other action would give the Ducks the championship outright.

Against Lewis and Clark the Mallards will meet a rapidly improving team much better than its 1-2-1 record indicates. After two opening losses, the Pioneers have tied Reed 1-1 and defeated University of Portland 3-2. Oregon, with a four game win streak since opening 5-0 loss at Reed, has beaten Portland 3-1.

Forwards Joe Macca and Erik VanderHoeven lead the Mallard attack with six and five goals, respectively, while John Morgan is dominating the Duck offense with seven of the team's 11 scores.

All members of the Soccer Club who are not regulars on the Duck or Mallard teams are invited to meet at a 3:30 p.m. Friday practice to form the third team for competition against Lewis and Clark.

Following this weekend's action the Ducks host St. Patrick's and the Mallards meet Oregon State in a Dec. 7 showdown at Corvallis.

Pigskin Prognosis

Stan "Wedge" Horton finally folded last weekend after leading the Emerald football prediction poll all season, and as a result Ben Kalb has leaped into a huge lead with a surprising 22-2 record last week. His season mark now stands at 137-34-4, .802 percentage, with two weeks to go in the contest. Horton (14-10 last week) is 130-41, while sports editor John Anderson, who turned in an 18-6 record, is one game behind Horton at 129-42.

Horton, undaunted, has issued an ultimatum. "I vow to make a comeback this week," said The Wedge. "With my luck, I should be 25-0."

As remarkable as Kalb's mark last weekend was, it was not invincible. Guest picker Doug Crichton, senior class vice president and Emerald advertising manager, turned in an amazing 23-1, faltering only on the Nebraska victory over Colorado.

Guest picker this week is Lynn Bond, known and loved as "the little old man in the dirty white cap." Bond, a long-time member of the University faculty, is custodian and poet laureate of Allen Hall.
