Gwyther still fasting; refuses bail release

David Gwyther, a University senior who was arrested Monday on federal and county indictments, continued his fast at Rocky Butte jail in Portland on through Wednesday.

He is being held on $5,000 bond for interfering and conspiring to hinder the Selective Service during the mock trials of the Roseburg and Eugene draft boards on Jan. 6 and Jan. 16. Gwyther is also charged with third degree arson in connection with the Navy Recruiting dispute in the EMU Jan. 22.

Gwyther phoned Paul Gratz, member of the SDS, Wednesday from Rocky Butte. Gratz said Gwyther told him it was the first phone call he was allowed to make since he was taken to jail Monday.

Gratz said Gwyther had not eaten anything since being arrested and plans to continue his fast until he is released on his own recognizance. He told Gratz he "feels he is really being railroaded" mostly because his trial has been set so quickly and because he has not been able to see a lawyer yet. Gwyther's trial is set for Feb. 27.

Gratz said Gwyther will see Herb Titus, his lawyer, this morning for the first time about legal matters. Titus is an associate professor of law at the University.

Gwyther told Gratz there were 25 other prisoners in the same room. He said they were all in on similar charges as himself. "They all knew Day was coming and were really glad to see him," Gratz said.

"He wanted to know what was going on at the University," Gratz said. "He was in remarkably good humor."

Six other people who were arrested Monday are all out on bail now. Bill Kerlee, Howard Anderson, Ray Eaglin and Kip Morgan were arrested for assault and battery. Morgan was also arrested on the same Federal charge as Gwyther.

Don Fitz and Roy Bennett were served with secret Lane County indictments and voluntarily appeared during Kerlee's arraignment Tuesday. Kerlee entered a plea of not guilty. Fitz and Bennett are also charged with disrupting Selective Service Board meetings.

The arraignments for Fitz, Bennett, Anderson and Eaglin will be held Friday at 9:30 a.m. in Lane County Circuit Court.

Public hearing on sanctions set

By JOHN JUNKINS
Of The Emerald

The Student Conduct Committee decided to hold a public hearing next Wednesday on a proposal to equalize sanctions between dormitory residents and other University students.

The committee also decided to hold a public hearing March

The amendment recommended by the Student Conduct Committee to the faculty at a special Monday meeting was printed slightly inaccurately in the Emerald.

The amendment to I.A.6. of the Student Conduct Code should have read, "Nothing in this code should be construed to deprive a student of the freedom to take reasoned (instead of reckoned) and orderly exception to data or views presented or to methods of instructions utilized in his classes."

5 over the possibility of a change of its membership make-up.

The hearing decision was prompted by an ASUO Senate request that the committee recommend to the faculty that its makeup be changed to seven voting students and three non-voting faculty.

The proposal, by Sidney Bernhard, faculty committee member, is an addition to I.A.6 of the Student Conduct Code, which concerns equal treatment of men and women.

The proposal reads, "The Student Conduct Committee and/or the Student Court shall not consider any violation or apply any sanction against a student, except as such violations could in fact have come to their attention independent of the student's place of residence."

Discussing his proposal, Bernhard said, "The code in principle is often applicable to all students, but in fact students are selectively punished because they happen to reside in dorms where such violations happened to be reported."

Commerce group supports ROTC

PORTLAND (P)—A proposal to withdraw academic credit from ROTC classes at the University was protested Tuesday by the military affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

The proposal will be debated March 5 by the University faculty. Robert Freeman, faculty member, proposed withdrawal of academic credit for courses in military science and aerospace studies, effective September, 1970.

The committee recommended the Chamber board of directors write the University and the State Board of Education to protest any proposal to kill the ROTC program.
