

Petition drive set for army mutineers

Sentencing of three soldiers at the Presidio in San Francisco last week brought Rich Fredericks, a senior at the University, to head a petition drive Thursday to voice disapproval of the sentences.

The three soldiers were sentenced to 14, 15 and 16 years at hard labor after being convicted for mutiny. The three, along with 24 prison inmates, conducted a sit-down strike after a fellow inmate was shot while allegedly trying to escape.

The other 24 prisoners will stand trial soon for their actions, Fredericks said.

Fredericks said that he will send the petitions along with enclosed letters to U.S. Senators Mark Hatfield, McGovern, and Kennedy, and probably to the commander in charge of the general court martials at the Presidio.

The petition drive is a individual effort and not sponsored by any organization or group on campus, stated Fredericks. He did not know if other campuses were conducting similar drives or not.

The petition not only expresses concern over the sentences received by the three soldiers, but also for the 24 other soldiers who participated in the sit-down strike and are now awaiting trial.

The petition demands a "full investigation into the conditions that precipitated the mass protest by 27 soldiers."

"I think a full scale investigation into the conditions that would cause 27 soldiers to protest is extremely necessary," declared Fredericks. "People just don't protest unless they have a damn good reason."

Fredericks said that he originally set a goal of 1,000 student signatures and 300 faculty signatures, but these figures would be revised as interest grows.

Fredericks said he would have a table today in the EMU.

and on to the Pioneer Cemetery where they will "bury fear and suspicion," said a spokesman for the PFM.

"All friends," the spokesman said, "will join hands and exercise the evil spirits." This will occur in front of the ROTC buildings.

In a press conference Wednesday, ASUO President Dick Jones invited members of the community to join the scheduled activities today at the University.

Most of the problems to be reflected upon—the war, draft, poverty, and racism—are relevant to the entire college community and not just the college students, Jones explained.

"This is a time when students and citizens can work together as a community," Jones said.

Jones stressed that the day was not to be a strike or a class boycott, but rather a day in which each individual could join in the scheduled dialogues and spend some time examining himself.

The Associated Press reported that some high schools in Detroit will observe the fourth anniversary of the death of Malcolm X.

Groups in the area advocate the establishment of a holiday and have encouraged absenteeism to dramatize the request.
