

Duck tracksters open season

Oregon's 1968 outdoor track and field season gets under way next week - end, Saturday, March 22, when the Webfoots host a dual meet with Fresno State College at 1:30 p.m. on Hayward Field. This will be the fifth meeting of the two schools with Oregon having won the four previous meets.

Fresno State opened its season last week in a three-way meet with Stanford and Occidental. Stanford won with 90 points, Occidental had 62, and Fresno State was last with 29 points. The Bulldogs have several good performers who promise to put on a fine show: Finnish Olympic star Iakki Mustakari has a life time best in the pole vault of 17-1, triple jumper Irvin Hunt jumped 49 feet last week and Kenneth Svenson has thrown the discus 177-2.

The meet will be a proving ground for many of the Ducks, and should provide some good indications of this year's strengths and weaknesses. Oregon Coach Bill Bowerman has indicated that the distance races should be our best events, "... we don't have the balance that we would like ... to field a good team you need four good sprinters and the same for the quarter in order to win the relays, the key to many meets."

Knoke returns

The Ducks have many fine athletes returning from last year, including three Olympians. Gary Knoke, "a world class hurdler," according to Bowerman, who competed for Australia in both the Mexico City and Tokyo Olympic Games. Arne Kvalheim competed in the 1500 meters for Norway, and Norm Trerise who competed for Canada.

The sprints are perhaps the weakest events for the Ducks as three-year letterman Mike Deible graduated. Frank Marlatt is the only returnee with a best of 9.6 in the 100. Football players Greg Lindsey and Jim Franklin will also compete.

Junior Ron Couser returns in the 440 with a best of 47.5, Jim Reverman will carry the Webfoot hopes in the 880 (1:48.8). Ray Hammitt and Steve Savage are also expected to compete in the half mile.

The mile is unquestionably the Ducks' best event with two sub-four minute men and several more real close: Kvalheim (3:58.5), Roscoe Divine (3:57.2), Terry Dooley (4:02.2), Tom Morrow (4:03.0), and Mike Lyons (4:07.1).

The two- and three-mile events will also be very good for Oregon this year: Morrow (8:49.8), Kvalheim (with school records of 8:33.2) in the two- and 13:19.1 in the three-mile. Trerise (8:51.3), and John Woodward (8:58.5) will provide great depth in the long distances. Jim Gorman could turn into a strong steeple chase threat this year, as he just started running the event last year and turned in a fine 8:53.1 to place first against USC.

Johnson joins Knoke

Myron Johnson will join Knoke to provide fine competition in the high and intermediate hurdles.

The field events won't produce spectacular results, but the Webfoots do have several fine performers. Long jumper Tom Smith has a lifetime best of 24-8, and Warren Chen Shui (from Jamaica) has gone 47-8 3/4 in the triple jump. Sophomore Jim McMillan has pole vaulted 16 feet and promises to go even higher.

In the weight events Zig Strauts with bests of 54-7 in the shot, and 174-3 in the discus will carry most of the load. Jim Sagle, who also competes in the shot, will return in the javelin with a 223-1 best effort.

After the Fresno State meet the Ducks will go on the road to meet Sacramento State on March 29. They will open their PAC season at home on April 5 against Washington.
