Students will get their last chance next term to learn U.S. History from Wendell Stephenson, history professor at the University. After 15 years of teaching here, Stephenson will be retiring in June.

Most students know him as the white-haired professor who waits for the 5 p.m. bus in front of 150 Science.

Stephenson, who is 70 years old today, has been at home recuperating from a fall he had in November. However, he will be teaching a colloquium at his home from 7:30 to 10:30 Wednesday night during spring term.

The colloquium will focus on the Civil War, which is Stephenson's specialty. According to the history department, the class will be open to 12 interested students. It will not be limited to history students.

Stephenson said students should be given the opportunity to learn and think in class. Students in his colloquium will be given a book to read each week.

Court sets trial date for Gwyther, Morgan

The cases of David Gwyther and Kip Morgan will be heard March 24 in Portland's U.S. District Court.

Both Gwyther and Morgan face three charges that could result in a 15 year maximum jail sentence. Both pleaded not guilty at the arraignment held in Portland Feb. 26.

Charges include disrupting official actions of Selective Service System personnel in Roseburg and Eugene, Jan. 8 and 16, and also being part of a conspiracy to effect the objects of the Selective Service System.

Many have moved...
but the Paulists
Stay On...

The Paulists arrived on the West Side of New York City in 1858. In 1895 they moved into San Francisco's Chinatown and into the fringes of Chicago's Loop in 1904.

They're still there.

Times change. Neighborhoods change. Sometimes they go up. Sometimes they go down—but through it all the Paulist stays. As long as there are people to be served the Paulist will be there.

The Paulist may be in the same old place but he constantly does new things. That's one of the characteristics of the Paulist order: using their own individual talents in new ways to meet the needs of a fast-changing world in the colleges... in communications... in the ghettos.

They will be given a chance to discuss their ideas and reactions to the books.

here," Stephenson said about his home. Instead, students will be offered a chance to give their views without interruption. "I let the students do most of the talking," he added.

He said there should be more small classes where students are not tied down by research papers and lectures.

Stephenson is regarded as foremost in the field of Southern history. He has taught and lectured in 15 different universities in England, France, India and the U.S.

He has founded and edited several journals on Southern history and has authored several books.

MORE THAN TIN-DEEP

Sure. You like a sharp-looking car. Clean lines. Gleaming sheet metal. The whole beauty bit. So do we. But there's more to an Olds than a coat of paint or a few hunks of chrome. A solid Body by Fisher, for instance. Rugged frames. Bump-gobbling suspensions. Engines that really know how to stretch a gallon or get you there in a hurry. And all the goodies. Stereo. Buckets. Sport wheels. Whatever you want in your package, you couldn't find a nicer package to put it in.
