From AP Reports

NEW YORK—The American Bar Association's Committee on the Federal Judiciary voted Sunday to reaffirm its endorsement of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. to sit on the U.S. Supreme Court.

The committee decision was announced by its chairman, Lawrence E. Walsh, after a meeting of the 12-member committee. The committee reconsidered its position on President Nixon's controversial nominee in light of complaints lodged against Haynsworth by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

VATICAN CITY—Shouting, cursing and scuffling erupted between liberal and conservative Roman Catholics in St. Peter's Square below Pope Paul's window Sunday night on the eve of the first working session of the world synod of bishops.

A babel of arguing rose from scores of Italian, French, Spanish and German Catholics during a "prayer vigil" called by dissident Italian laymen to urge the synod to discuss "relevant" Church problems such as care for the poor.

MOSCOW—A second Soyuz spacecraft hurtled into space Sunday to join one already in orbit, establishing a Soviet record with five rookie cosmonauts simultaneously circling the earth.

Semi-official sources said a third manned craft would be launched in a program to construct the world's first space platform.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland—Ordered to shoot to kill if fired upon, more British troops flew to Northern Ireland Sunday after a wild night of rioting in Belfast left three persons dead and scores of others wounded.

LOS ANGELES—American tourists swarmed across the Mexican border this weekend after cancellation of Operation Intercept, the U.S. government's crackdown on narcotics smuggling. But in many cases the tourists encountered traffic delays and continued inspections as they crossed back into the United States.

Hershey out; civilian in

Lt. Gen. Lewis Hershey's stormy 28 years as Selective Service director or will end Feb. 16 when he will be replaced by a civilian, the White House said.

The 76-year-old soldier was summoned by the president Friday and after a five-minute conference, it was announced that Hershey will be promoted to full general and serve as special advisor on manpower mobilization to the president after Feb. 16.

Hershey's successor will be appointed in the near future and will serve as deputy director until the turnover of positions.

President Nixon said Hershey will help in the transition to a new young-first draft system and then "help to develop a standby draft system for the period when the nation adopts an all-volunteer armed force."

Instigated modern system

Hershey instigated the modern draft system in the late 1930's and remained its head since its inception.

As director since July 3, 1941, he supervised the induction of more than 14.5 million men into the armed forces during World War II, the Korean war, the cold war and the Vietnam war.

He has served under six presidents despite criticism from both Congress and public. Some attribute his survival to his taking a position that no one else wanted, having friends on the powerful congressional Armed Services Committee and his image as a patriotic defender.

Recently, Nixon, as part of his efforts to quell dissent by persuasion, cut back draft calls this fall and pressed for a lottery system of draft selection. Hershey supported Nixon's proposal for a lottery system although in the past he has consistently opposed them.

Educators urge troop pullout

From AP reports

The presidents of 79 private colleges and universities appealed to President Nixon for a stepped-up timetable for American withdrawal from Vietnam.

The educators, representing institutions across the country, made their appeal in a 200-word statement which they sent to Nixon four days before the Oct. 15 national moratorium.

A rapid withdrawal they said, "would be in our country's highest interest at home and abroad."

The statement was also sent to congressional leaders and it stated, "There are times to be silent and times to speak. This is a time to speak."

"More and more we see the war deflecting energies and resources from urgent business on our own doorsteps. The accumulated costs of the war are not in men and material alone. There are costs, too, in the effects on young peoples' hopes and beliefs."

The presidents concluded an end to the war would not solve campus unrest but added, "It will permit us to work more effectively in support of more peaceful priorities."
