Seven charged with murder

By GIL JOHNSON
College Press Service

SALINAS, Calif. (CPS)—Seven black inmates of Soledad prison were charged last week with murder, conspiracy to murder, and assault on an officer. Under California laws applying to prisoners, the seven will be automatically executed if convicted on any of these charges. The charges stemmed from the murder of prison guard William Shull, who was stabbed to death July 22 while distributing athletic equipment from a small building adjoining a prison exercise yard. Shull's death is the second murder this year in Soledad, one of the nation's most racially embattled prisons.

After the first murder last January, three black inmates—George Jackson, John Cluchette, and Fleeta Drumgo—were charged, and will face trial soon in San Diego. In August, Jackson's brother, John, was killed by police following the kidnapping of a Marin county judge. The judge was to have been held in exchange for the release of the three, known nationally as the Soledad Brothers.

Now add to the list O.C. Allen, 26, serving five to life for robbery; Jimmy James, 23, one to life for robbery; Jesse Philips, 20, life for murder; Walter Watson, 24, one to life for robbery; Alfred Dunn, 20, five to life for robbery; James Warner, 21, one to life for robbery; and Roosevelt Williams, 27, five to life for robbery.

Like the first three Soledad Brothers, these seven were also known in the prison of political organizing among black inmates.

The seven defendants, represented by radical Bay Area lawyer Patrick Hallinan, appeared for arraignment Sept. 29. Chained, shackled and handcuffed, they all enter pleas of not guilty.

During the arraignment, the municipal judge denied everyone of Hallinan's motions, including one to have their hands cuffed in front of them so that they could lean against the backs of their chairs.

The seven are currently being held in the prison's "adjustment center"—which is solitary confinement. They each get one hour of exercise a day, repeated interrogation, and have been kept from seeing their attorney save for one brief occasion.

Philatelists form club

A stamp club is being formed on campus.

Formally called a philatelic society, the club is being initiated by University student Paul Chung.

Chung said he is forming the club because "there are quite a few collectors around," and also, "there is a stamp club downtown, but it doesn't function quite well enough."

According to Chung, the club will meet regularly to trade stamps and also correspond with other students overseas in order to trade stamps by mail.

All kinds of collectors are welcome, Chung said, from those who collect all types of stamps to those who are only "topical" collectors.

Information on the club can be obtained by writing to Chung at P.O. Box 3342, campus.

Chairman to receive award

M. Frances Dougherty, chairman of the department of dance at the University, is to receive one of three awards presented annually to outstanding alumni of Northern Colorado University in Greeley, Colorado.

The award, Outstanding Woman Educator of the Year, will be presented to Miss Dougherty, during Homecoming activities on the Colorado campus this weekend.

Outdoor survival topic of seminars

Mel Jackson, Outdoor and Environmental Coordinator for the Eugene Parks and Recreation Department, will present a series of seminars on wilderness survival Wednesday through Saturday.

Sponsored by the Park and Recreation Organization of Students (PROS), a University group, the first lecture will be titled "Survival in the Wilderness." It will be held at 8:30 p.m. in the EMU.

Jackson, a foremost authority on the wilderness is also presenting two other lectures. Thursday's will be "Equipment and Technique" while Friday and Saturday will feature a survival weekend. Campsite for the weekend will be announced at the first seminar.

Vince Capri, spokesman for PROS, said the lectures are free of charge and open to the public.

Tickets available

Tickets for the Nov. 6 Fifth Dimension concert go on sale Thursday.

Ticket prices are $2, $2.50, $3.50 and $4 and may be purchased at the EMU, Mattox Pipes or Viscount Records.
