Renaissance Faire profits given to new community

The profits from last weekend's Renaissance Faire have amounted to $3,384, according to Cindy Wooten, one of the Faire's co-chairmen.

Expenses from the Faire have not yet been totaled, but will probably reach about $1,400, she added.

How the funds are to be used will be determined by a finance committee made up of interested members of the New American Community. This includes anyone affiliated with any one of a dozen Eugene service organizations, including the Augur, the Patriot Party, Willamette People's Co-operative Grocery, White Bird Sociomedical Aid Station, the Landscaping Co-op, Eugene Craftsmen's Guild, Eugene and Campus Switchboards, Children's Community, the Wood & Fuel Co-op, Lane County Free School and the Food Gatherer's Co-op.

No decision about the dispersment of the profits was reached at Sunday night's New American Community meeting. Disagreement issued as to whether the funds should go toward a down payment on land for a permanent location for the Faire, or to meet the community's more immediate needs, according to Mrs. Wooten.

'Dream' opens

Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream" opens its three-weekend run at the University Theatre Friday night, Nov. 6, at 8 p.m.

Six performances and two matinees are planned for the play. Tickets are priced at $2.50 and $3.50, and are available at the University Theatre Box Office in Villard Hall.

Correction

Contrary to a story in Thursday's Emerald, the handicapped swim program is not sponsored by only the YMCA. According to Libby McAnally, president of the campus YWCA, the program is jointly sponsored by both groups.

She also announced that a Chicano student from the University's Chicano Student Union has been included on the finance committee.

People from the Sky River Collective are supervising clean-up work at the site where the Faire was held. They will be staying there until Oct. 31.

Legal committee holds meeting

The ASUO Legal Affairs Committee held its first meeting of the year Tuesday night to decide which cases will be handled by the committee.

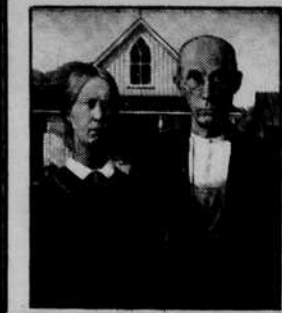

Committee chairman Jim Teasdale said cases needing legal counsel, except those concerning the draft and landlord and tenant, will be handled by the committee.

Draft and landlord and tenant cases should be taken to other offices in the EMU.

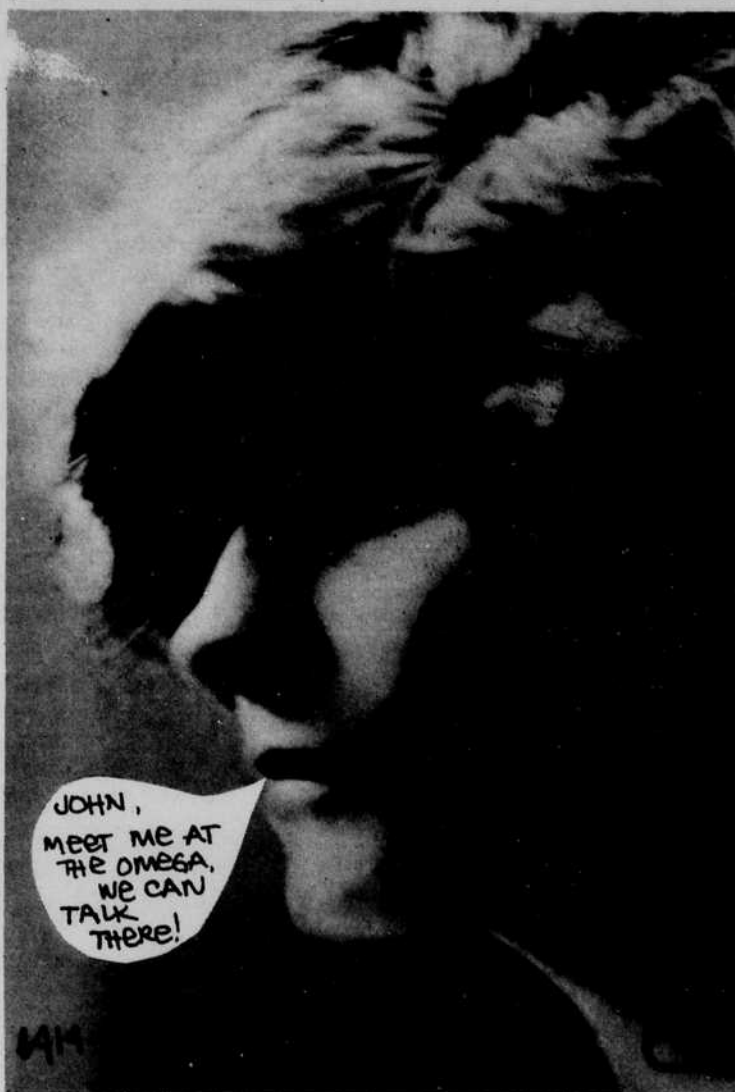

Students wishing information on landlord and tenant policies should pick up the free pamphlet from the main lobby of the EMU.

An important topic to be discussed at future meetings of the legal committee will be the release of students from dorm and married couple housing contracts.
