The Black Student Union (BSU) did not ask the ASUO Fiscal Committee to "get people out of jail," BSU spokesmen told the Emerald Thursday.

A report in Thursday's Emerald which said a proposed bail project was eliminated because "it was felt by the committee that it was not the duty of the ASUO to get people out of jail" was inaccurate, the BSU spokesman said.

Children's art series begins

A special children's community art series will begin Saturday with the presentation of a children's folk concert. The concert, sponsored by the ASUO, will feature Larry Hanks and Jody Stecher, folk musicians from the San Francisco Bay area.

LA ensemble plays tonight

Thursday night marked the first in a weekend series of musical events featuring the University Symphony Orchestra as the first part of the 19th annual Conference on Music Education.

Each year since 1951, the music department has imported 500 to 700 music instructors. This year they come from several western states, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Illinois and from Canada. These instructors hold special clinics for the students, and hold band, orchestra, choral, and elementary sessions.

The Los Angeles Brass Ensemble will be giving a concert at 8 p.m. tonight, preceding other groups such as the University Singers and the Eugene University Wind Ensemble. The conference will conclude Saturday following a concert by the University of Oregon Symphony Orchestra, beginning at 4 p.m. All concerts except the University Singers, which will be given at the Grace Lutheran Church, will be at the Recital Hall. Admission is free except for the Los Angeles Brass Ensemble performance.
