

This is starvation

This is starvation . . . a child getting weaker and weaker, a mind stunted from lack of protein.

This is starvation . . . choosing which of three sons may live, eyes glazed and starving.

This is starvation . . . parchment skin, dry and cracked, swollen ankles and bloated stomach.

And this is starvation . . . heaps of bodies, mass graves.

"This world is a beautiful place to be born into if you don't mind some people dying all the time, or maybe only starving some of the time, which isn't half so bad if it isn't you."

— Lawrence Ferlinghetti

The world must awaken to the revolution of ideas and action that has to occur if these needs of hunger are to be met. The youth of this and all other nations must take an active hand in achieving needed change through personal and community involvement. The process of politics we believe will not alone resolve the problem.

The time for feeling "deep concern" about the agony of hunger is past. Expressing passion for our fellow man by verbal commitment is now hypocritical. We may only be true to ourselves and the world by involving our purpose in action. And it is this that we believe to be the true expression of love, the joy of freeing man to seek his human potential in a world free from hunger.

THE Eugene-Springfield Walk Committee is in final planning stages for participation in International Walk Weekend—May 8th and 9th. Walk for Development is autonomous, but works under the auspices of the American Freedom From Hunger Foundation.

THE walk is designed to create awareness in the community of the massive hunger problem existing in all community levels; local, national, and international. It is also a positive approach to hunger that everyone may participate in by devoting their energies and idealism to aiding others.

TO become a walker, pick up a Walk Card, contact a sponsor (or sponsors) who will pledge you a certain amount of money per mile that you walk, and report your sponsors to the Walk Committee. Then, on May 8th walk the 34-mile course for as far as possible, getting your Card stamped at pre-measured check points. Following the Walk, you will have two weeks to contact your sponsors and collect their pledges.

WALK cards are available at the Walk for Development Headquarters, 608 Willamette St.; University of Oregon, Lane Community College, and local High School business offices; Scarborough Faire; and other businesses and community outlets. For more information, call the Walk for Development Headquarters—342-7276—and attend the Hunger Conference on May 7th at 8 PM in Harris Hall.
