Criticism not of committee

University Feminists decided at their Tuesday night meeting to draft a letter to HEW containing criticisms of the University's new anti-discrimination program, not criticisms of the Status of Women committee as reported in Thursday's Emerald.

"We in no way criticize the Status of Women," a spokesman for the group, Jeannette Silveira, said Thursday.

Degree application must be filed

Students who plan to receive a degree at the end of Winter term should file an application at the Office of the Registrar.

Clergy conference set for today

About 25 clergymen from around the state will gather in Eugene Friday today and Saturday for the first of this year's clergy conferences, sponsored by the Cooperative Christian Ministry.

At 1:30 p.m. today, the clergymen will meet with any interested undergraduates at the Wesley Center, 1236 Kincaid. Faculty members will meet with them at the Koinonia Center, 1414 Kincaid, at 3:15 p.m. and University President Robert Clark will meet with them at 4:15 p.m.

In the Newman Center, 1850 Emerald, at 7:30 p.m. will be a meeting with "subculture groups," according to CCM minister G.G. Goldthwaite.

Saturday morning at 9, Iain More, ASUO President, will meet with them.

Purpose of the conference is to increase communication between the University campus and Oregon clergymen.

Together Club holds all day fest

The Together Club is dying, financially.

The private club "for the people," located at 2nd Ave. and Polk St., needs to come up with $500 if needs to pay its landlord next Monday.

So to raise money to save the club, it is holding an all-day five-band all-you-can-eat home-made dinner, this Sunday for $2. According to Bob Zagorin of the club, Together will be open from 2 p.m. "til whenever it ends."

Russian poet to give reading

There will be a poetry reading in Russian with English commentary by Andrei Voznesensky at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the EMU ballroom.

Voznesensky is Russia's foremost modern poet and a protege of Boris Pasternak. He has been described as the "eloquent new voice of Russia." The reading is being sponsored by the ASUO Lectures Forum, U of O Lectures Committee, the University Assembly, the departments of English, Russian, German and History, and the Honors College. Admission is free.

Reception to be held

The University's annual Foreign Student reception will be held at 4 p.m. Sunday in the Central Presbyterian Church on 15th and Ferry St.

Among those speaking will be University President Robert Clark, ASUO President Iain More, and Eugene Mayor Les Anderson. The reception is being sponsored by the Foreign Students Friendship Foundation. It is expected that 70 nations will be represented.
