"Woman," a photographic exhibition of 522 prints from 85 countries, begins at the University of Oregon Museum of Art Saturday, January 15 and will continue through February 27. The exhibition was drawn from the work of 1000 photographers by the World Exhibition of Photography. Over 40,000 prints were judged in order to select the photographs for the show. The World Exhibition of Photography is a co-operative enterprise of "Stern" magazine together with more than 400 art museums in 51 countries. "Woman" is showing concurrently at numerous museums through the country.
