Reforestation bill passed by House

Forth District Congressman John Dellenback (R-Ore.) expressed his pleasure after the House of Representatives overwhelmingly approved the Accelerated Reforestation of National Forests Act last week, 371-5. Dellenback is a co-sponsor and a strong supporter of the bill originally introduced by Congressman John Kyl (R-Iowa).

Dellenback said, "I am particularly pleased because this measure would speed up the reforestation of our national forest lands in all parts of the nation, some parts of which need it even more critically than do we."

The legislation would establish a special fund for the reforestation of national forests and require the Agriculture Department to transfer certain other earmarked funds to the reforestation account.

Asian studies correction

The results of a referendum polling student opinion on HPUP's original Asian Studies recommendation were misprinted in Friday's Emerald. The results should read: Uphold HPUP's decision, 361; Retain Asian Studies as a master's degree program, 1670.

The referendum was part of the ASUO General Election ballot.

Philosopher to speak on Existentialism

Philosopher Walter Kaufman, well-known author, educator and translator, will speak on "What is wrong with Existentialism" tonight at 7 p.m. in the EMU Dad's Room.

Kaufman, who has taught philosophy at Princeton University since 1947, is author of such books as "Nietzsche," "The Faith of a Heretic," "Cain and Other Poems," and "Tragedy and Philosophy."

Men's Liberation group to meet

Two male University students are forming a "group for men" on campus with the purpose of "combatting sexism."

Chuck Campbell, junior, and Rick Rosenfeld, senior, said Sunday the group will have its first meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in the EMU.

One purpose of the group will be to "support the feminist movement on campus," Rosenfeld said. "We'll be discussing our own sexism and some recent political activities," he said.

Exact purposes of the group will be discussed at tonight's meeting, Campbell said.

Weaver to speak on campus

Jim Weaver will be on campus today. He will speak on two occasions and will meet with students for several hours at the EMU.

Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity will sponsor his appearance at 11:30 a.m. in room 129 of the Law School.

At 12:30 p.m. Weaver will speak at the E.M.U. Free Speech Platform. Students for Weaver will open a Weaver for Congress Booth at the Terrace at that time. Weaver will have dinner with students at the College Inn from 5-6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Madrigal comedy presented tonight

The University Collegium Musicum, an ensemble of students interested in the study and performance of rare and ancient music, will present, under the direction of Harold Owen, a reading of a madrigal comedy published in 1608 by Adriano Banchieri entitled "Festino".

It was an entertainment to be given before supper on "Fat Thursday," equivalent to Shrove Tuesday. The ensemble will include chorus, a group of solo voices, and instruments of the period such as recorder, krumphorn, and harpsichord. The concert will be held free of charge on Monday, May 8, at 8:00 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the School of Music.

ESC may be limited without secretarial help

The University's Environmental Studies Center (ESC) has a director and a work-study student but it doesn't have a secretary and won't get one if the state legislature Emergency Board's decision is final.

That board decided just over two weeks ago that the University cannot fill the ESC secretarial position. Contacted Friday, University President Robert Clark said that the decision has not been made on whether or not to appeal the Emergency Board's decision to the State Board of Higher Education.

Without the secretary the ESC would be greatly limited in hours that it could be open for use.

ESC Director Stan Cook, associate professor of biology, is responsible for teaching classes as well as for heading the center. He is not paid extra for his directorship. Work-study student James Rhuman works in the ESC only 15 hours a week.

The ESC was formed last fall following a recommendation from an interdisciplinary faculty committee. It was given high priority by the University's permanent budget committee as well as by HPUP for its basic budget of $10,860.

That budget included the salary for a secretary. More important, the money for the ESC was not an additional request by the University—but a reallocation of funds within the University.
