Double jeopardy raised as 'Papers' case issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government told the Supreme Court Monday it could lose its right to prosecute Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo for theft of the Pentagon Papers unless the trial is resumed right away.

The government raised the double jeopardy issue in asking the court to reverse Justice William O. Douglas, who has halted the trial possibly for months.

Solicitor general Erwin N. Griswold and Daniel M. Friedman, his deputy, said the stay issued Friday by Douglas in a wiretap dispute was unprecedented, an impermissible interference with criminal proceedings and possibly disastrous.

The Justice Department lawyers argued that if the jurors were discharged by U.S. District Court Judge Matt W. Byrne Jr. while the wiretap question was debated, the government could lose its right to try Ellsberg and Russo on charges of espionage, theft and conspiracy.

Chief Justice Warren Burger gave attorneys for Ellsberg and Russo until noon EDT Wednesday to respond to the government's petition.

In Los Angeles, defense attorneys said they had no comment on the double jeopardy issue.

They said they had sent a telegram to the U.S. Supreme Court clerk urging Justice William H. Rehnquist to disqualify himself in the case.

The defense asserted that Rehnquist "could well have been assistant attorney general at the time the attorney general authorized the wiretapping at issue" and also "may have been involved on the government side" in litigation between the New York Times and the Justice Department over the publication of the Pentagon Papers.

A new trial, the Defense Department lawyers said, could mean under recent Supreme Court decision, that the defendants were unconstitutionally being put twice in jeopardy for one offense.

Eagleton press conference text

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is the text of statements read Monday night by Sens. George McGovern and Thomas F. Eagleton:

McGovern: Ladies and gentlemen, Sen. Eagleton and I will each open with a brief prepared statement and then we will be happy to respond to any questions that you may have.

Sen. Eagleton and I have met this evening to discuss his vice-presidential candidacy. I have consistently supported Sen. Eagleton. He is a talented, able, United States senator whose ability will make him a prominent figure in American politics for many, many years to come.

I am fully satisfied that his health is excellent. I base that conclusion on my conversations with his doctors and my close and political association with him.

In the joint decision that we have reached tonight, health was not a factor.

But the public debate over Sen. Eagleton's past medical history continues to divert attention from the great national issues that need to be discussed.

I have referred to the growing pressures to ask for Sen. Eagleton's withdrawal. We also have seen growing vocal support for his candidacy.

Sen. Eagleton and I agree that the paramount need of the Democratic party and the nation in 1972 are unity and a full discussion of the real issues before the country. Continued debate between those who oppose his candidacy and those who favor it will serve to further divide the party and the nation.

Therefore, we have jointly agreed that the best course is for Sen. Eagleton to step aside. I wish nothing but the best for Sen. Eagleton and his family. He is and will remain my good friend. Furthermore he has generously agreed to campaign for the Democratic ticket this fall.

I can assure you that I welcome his strong help in this important campaign.

Eagleton: As Sen. McGovern has stated, he and I are jointly in agreement that I should withdraw as the Democratic candidate for vice president.

Needless to say, this was not an easy decision for Sen. McGovern or me.

Literally thousands and thousands of people have phoned, telegraphed or written to me and Sen. McGovern urging me to press on.

I will not divide the Democratic party, which already has too many divisions.

Therefore, I am writing to the chairman of the Democratic party withdrawing my candidacy.

My personal feelings are secondary to the necessity to unify the Democratic party and elect George McGovern president of the United States.

My conscience is clear. My spirits are high. This is definitely not my last press conference and Tom Eagleton is going to be around for a long, long time.

I'm for George McGovern and I'm going to continue working to see him elected president of the United States.
