Dorm plans homecoming revival

The virtually abandoned tradition called Homecoming will be revived this weekend at the University when members of Walton Hall dormitory complex sponsor "Homecoming '57."

"Homecoming '57," a "somewhat smaller" but old-time traditional celebration commemorates the year when the University Ducks went to the Rose Bowl, members of the complex explain. Alumni are welcomed back to the campus once again to meet with friends.

Activities will begin today with a small parade around campus, complete with banners and a "pep band." The Homecoming dance will be held in the ballroom of the EMU on Saturday night, from 9 p.m. to midnight, following the afternoon Homecoming game between the University and Washington State University.

Peace march planned Saturday

A march, sponsored by the Oct. 14 Coalition, will be held Saturday. The march will leave from the EMU and the Lane County Fairgrounds at 10:30 a.m. and proceed to the Mall.

A representative of the Vietnamese Student Union will address the crowd and Guerrilla theater skits against the war will also be featured.

Cars will go to hear McGovern

Students interested in catching a ride to Portland to hear Senator George McGovern Friday should contact Jerry Blake, x 5041. Cars will be leaving that morning from 150 Science for Portland.

McGovern's noon appearance will be at the Pioneer Post Office, SW 6th and Morrison.

Special graphics display underway

Cosmo Club sets International Night

An International Night of fun and relaxation will be held at 8 p.m. on Saturday at the Knights of Columbus Hall on 1144 Charnelton. Admission is one dollar per person.

The International Night is sponsored by the University Cosmopolitan Association, a cross-cultural organization operated by students of different cultures. Isiah Obot, the organization's president, said that the basic philosophy of the Cosmopolitan Association is to bring a closer understanding between peoples of various nationalities. And he said that the International Night is planned to give old and new students and the community people a chance to get acquainted.

Throughout the six-hour International Night, soul and rock music will be provided by the Cole Band. Everyone is welcome, and those who need a ride should contact Obot or Peter at 342-2796 or 344-4881 respectively.

State Board members to visit campus

Three members of the State Board of Higher Education will be on campus Oct. 30 and 31 to meet with students, faculty and administration.

The members, George Layman, Robert Holmes and Loran Stewart, will then report back to the Board for a "need assessment, solutions and implementation on problems," according to R.L. Collins, Secretary of the Board. The visit is part of the Board's "Institutional Team Visitation Program," in which three different members visit each of the state system campuses once a year.

Exhibit celebrates University's founding

The State of Oregon legislative act which established the University was passed 100 years ago this month.

Commemorating this anniversary, the University's Library is displaying an exhibit of photographs, documents and other items associated with the founding of the University.

Photographs of the first faculty, the first graduating class, and early buildings are included in the exhibit, as are records of the Union University Association, whose members personally made possible the construction of the first building, Deady Hall.

The exhibit will be up in the circulation lobby of the Library through Oct. 31. Also on display in the Library, in the east hall off the circulation lobby, is the exhibit of "A cultural glimpse of Southeast Asia."
