Dance discussed in lecture and panel

Allegra Fuller-Snyder, dance-ethnologist from the University of California at Los Angeles, will present a discussion of "Dance in Non-Western Cultures—Art and Science: One Vision" at 3 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 14, in the EMU Dads Room.

The lecture will be followed by a panel discussion featuring Barre Toelken, associate professor of English, and Janet Descutner, assistant professor of dance.

Both events are part of the Festival of Arts now under way on the campus and are open to the public free of charge. Theme of the Festival is "Two Visions: Science and Art".

'New music' ensemble plays Sunday

A composer and ensemble devoted to the performance of new music will be featured in three major events of the University's Festival of Arts this week.

Kenneth Gaburo and members of NMCE IV, will present a panel discussion entitled "Sensing" at 2 p.m., Saturday, at the Gerlinger dance studio.

That evening Gaburo will present a slide-lecture on linguistics, called "Extraction", at 8 p.m., also in the Gerlinger dance studio.

Sunday afternoon, January 14, NMCE IV, directed by Gaburo, will perform "The Beauty of Irrelevant Music" and "Mutatis Mutandis" at 8 p.m., in the Gerlinger Hall Dance Studio.

The public is invited to all three events free of charge.

Foreign architecture slide show offered

"As Viewed From a Camper Bus" is the title of a slide-illustrated talk to be given today by University architecture professor John Briscoe.

The public is invited, free of charge, to the program at 4:30 p.m. in 177 Lawrence. It is part of a series of lectures by members of the faculty of the School of Architecture and Allied Arts.

Briscoe will present views of Europe and North Africa as seen through the eyes of an architect, taken on his travels during a sabbatical leave in 1972.

A member of the University faculty since 1953, Briscoe also has been a practicing architect in his own firm since 1957.

He is current president of the Oregon State Board of Architect Examiners and past president of the Oregon Council of Architects.

Environmental lunch group meets

There will be an Environmentalist's Luncheon Meeting at noon in the EMU on alternate Fridays during winter term, according to Debbie Dunlap of the ASUO Survival Center. The first meeting of the term will be today. Topics to be discussed include legislative activities, forestry matters, important upcoming dates and "anything anyone wants to bring up." The room will be posted.

Librarianship dean named for '73-'74

Professor Elizabeth Findly has been named dean of the University School of Librarianship for 1973-74, University President Robert Clark has announced. The appointment is effective July 1, 1973.

Perry Morrison, dean of the School since July, 1971, has resigned to return to full-time teaching and research.

A search committee is being named to find candidates for a dean to take over leadership of the School in 1974.

Professor Findly's retirement date has been extended one year to permit her to serve as dean during 1973-74.

She has been a professor in the School of Librarianship since 1968. She first came to the University in 1934 as a senior assistant in the University Library's reference department. In 1947, she became head reference librarian, a position she held until 1968, when she joined the faculty of the School of Librarianship. From 1950 to 1966 she also served as head documents librarian.

Professor Findly is the third dean of the Librarianship School, which began classes in the fall of 1966 and now has 90 students enrolled in the master's program in library science. The school is the only accredited library school in the state.

'Farmworker's friends' to boycott Safeway

The Eugene "Friends of the Farmworkers" will hold a picketline in front of the Safeway Store at 145 18th E. this Saturday, January 13, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The picket line will set off a new nationwide campaign by the United Farm Workers, AFL-CIO. The United Farm Workers are currently involved in a boycott of all non-UFW lettuce. Safeway has been chosen as the focal point for this boycott.

For more information on the boycott contact Marion Phelan at 245-8323 or Mel Kang at 342-8630.

Weekend preview correction

In the Weekend Preview article of Thursday's Emerald, the name of the band playing at the Roman Forum was incorrectly given as Groundwork. The name of the band should be Roadwork.

Dinner slated for medical group

A dinner to benefit the Medical Aid for Indochina will be held Saturday night at the Wesley Center, 1236 Kincaid, from 5-7 p.m. The dinner is being sponsored by the Eugene Coalition Against the War. For information about tickets, call 688-7789.
