OSPIRG reports on ski safety

A report to be released today by the Oregon Student Public Interest Research Group (OSPIRG) cites major safety hazards on the ski slopes of Oregon.

The report, entitled "Oregon Ski Areas: Safe or Unsafe?" calls for immediate closure of Hoodoo and other ski areas which lack safety measures to protect skiers.

OSPIRG spokesman Ted Scheinman said that Hoodoo was the only area where safety measures were lacking, though OSPIRG suspected these measures were absent in other ski areas as well.

The major hazard found at Hoodoo was the lack of safety gates on ski lifts. A safety gate is a restraint which stops ski lifts when a skier accidentally misses the unloading ramp of a lift.

These gates are required by the Forest Service and the report calls upon them to enforce the regulations at Hoodoo.

OSPIRG inspectors also found loading and unloading ramps to be dangerous in six areas. Among the dangers noted were steep inclines and obstructions on the loading and unloading ramps.

OSPIRG inspectors also observed unmarked obstructions on the slopes of many ski areas, including rock and tree stumps.

The report noted that four ski areas failed to keep sleds, toboggans, and dogs off of the ski slopes.

The report commended all the ski areas for having some safety measures, including adequate communications, a sufficient number of lift attendants, and rescue equipment. The buildings at all the ski areas were found to be in good condition.

The report recommended that the ski area inspections be centralized under the control of one Regional Forest Service official and recommended giving the official authority to close down unsafe ski lifts.

Council to discuss amendment

The feasibility of instigating a lawsuit on the meaning of the freeway charter amendment passed by Eugene voters in November will be discussed at today's meeting of the Council-of-the-whole.

The amendment requires that all limited access freeway proposals to be built in Eugene be put before the city's voters for their approval.

Assistant City Manager Keith Martin will discuss with city council members the desirability of instigating a lawsuit, with the cooperation of the proponents of the measure, to determine the meaning of the charter language.

Another matter before the council will be a city ordinance proposal dealing with bicycles which has been recommended by the city's bicycle committee.

The ordinance requires that a person riding a bicycle later than one-half hour after sunset or earlier than one-half hour before sunrise must equip the bicycle with a white light visible 500 feet in front and a red light or reflector visible 300 feet to the rear.

Program offices switched

Various ASUO programs have been relocated on the third floor of the EMU and offices have been provided for the new Incidental Fees Committee and the ASUO Co-Governance Committee.

The SEARCH program is now located in 310 EMU, formerly the ASUO Senate office. The Incidental Fees Committee will occupy the old SEARCH office, room 305.

The office of the senate president, 311 EMU, now houses four agencies, the new ASUO Co-Governance Committee, the ASUO Constitution Committee, the Elections Committee and the Elections Board.

The class officers have moved from the Administrative Assistants' office in 312 EMU, which they share with the Student Administrative Board, the Oregon Prisoner's Coalition and the Libraries Association.

These changes were made when the abolishment of the ASUO Senate left two offices vacant, according to Fred Loveys, ASUO vice-president.

FEATURES

APRIL 1 THE SUMMER OF '42

A nostalgic excursion for some and an open door to a generation ago for others. A human comedy with a timeless feeling.

APRIL 15 CARNAL KNOWLEDGE

Mike Nichols' grimly purposeful satire about depersonalization and how we use each other as sex objects. A film that forgets sex can be fun.

APRIL 29 PLAY MISTY FOR ME

Clint Eastwood's directing debut is an expert thriller that evokes terror by drawing on the two-faced coin of male narcissism and male paranoia.

MAY 13 RYAN'S DAUGHTER

David Lean (director of Dr. Zhivago, Bridge on the River Kwai, and Lawrence of Arabia) has made what is probably the biggest intimate love story ever.

CLASSICS

APRIL 8 THE GOLD RUSH

Considered by most to be the silent screen's finest comedy, this bittersweet tale of the Little Tramp's misplaced love in the Klondike is Chaplin at his best.

APRIL 22 THE GENERAL

Buster Keaton in a film with a strong story and many action possibilities which he uses for some magnificent sight gags and the display of the full range of human emotion.

MAY 6 DUCK SOUP

Groucho's nominee for the "craziest" Marx Brothers film. The film was directed by Leo McCarey, a genuine genius of comedy.

MAY 20 MY LITTLE CHICKADEE

With W.C. Fields and Mae West writing their own material, the film is a perfect target range for fire fast repartee and verbal surgery.

All films scheduled for 180 PLC.
Admission $1.00. Feature Films at 3, 6, and 9 pm. Film Classics at 3 and 6 pm.
