Correction

The dance concert to be presented by Betty Jean Clark, senior in dance, will take place at 12:30 p.m. April 12, and 8:00 p.m. April 13 in 353 Gerlinger Annex. The dates for the concert were incorrectly listed in the weekend preview in yesterday's paper as being April 5 and 6.

ASUO candidates meeting today

A meeting for all ASUO candidates will be held today at 5 p.m. in the EMU, room to be posted.

All candidates are urged to attend.

Today last day for dorm RA applications

Today is the last day to submit applications for dormitory resident assistants for next year. Applications should be turned in by 4:30 p.m. to the housing office in Carson Hall.

Shakuhachi recital slated

Elliott Weisgarber, one of the few Westerners to master the Japanese flute-like instrument called the "shakuhachi", will present a lecture-recital on the shakuhachi Saturday at 8 p.m. in the School of Music Recital Hall.

The public is invited to the performance-discussion, free of charge, which is sponsored by the School of Music and Asian Studies.

Biology department seminar scheduled

The biology department will sponsor a seminar on "Cell substrate interactions in vitro: effects upon muscles and nerve morphogenesis." Stephen D. Hauschka, of the department of biochemistry at the University of Washington, will speak today at 4:30 in 123 Science. An open tea is scheduled for 4 p.m. in 361 Science.

Sunday: A sitar concert

A unique performance of Indian music, including two sitars and a tabla, will be presented Sunday in the Music School Recital Hall at 4:00 p.m.

Performing on the sitar will be Ram Das Chakravarty, who has achieved high critical acclaim for his vocal approach to the music, and Krishna Sanyal, the most widely heard female sitarist, known for her extreme speed and delicate clarity.

Accompanying them will be Zakir Hussain, one of the foremost musicians on the tabla. He has appeared in the west with such artists as Ali Akbar Khan and also has performed with such groups as the Grateful Dead and Quicksilver. Hussain will spend three weeks in the summer of '73 as a visiting professor to the University of Oregon.

There is no admission charge for the event which is sponsored by the School of Music and the ASUO Cultural Forum.

Bluegrass headlines folk concert

One of the West Coast's top bluegrass bands, the Tall Timber String Band, will headline a folk concert today at 8 p.m. in the EMU Ballroom.

The group's material is strictly bluegrass ranging from the rapid tempo favorites known by many to slower traditional tunes emphasizing group harmony.

The concert is the last in a series entitled "Our Music," co-sponsored by the ASUO Cultural Forum and the University Folk Music Club. Tickets will be sold at the door for $1 for adults, 50 cents for children.

Hitler: German resistance talk

Hans Mommsen, professor of modern history at the University of Bochum, West Germany, will be a guest speaker at the University today.

Professor Mommsen will speak on "The German Resistance to Hitler: Its Social and Political Philosophy." His address will be at 3:30 p.m. in the EMU. The public is invited to attend.

'Mass' concert tomorrow

A concert of Renaissance, Baroque and Contemporary Masses will be presented by a group of graduate students from the School of Music Saturday night at the Central Lutheran Church, 18th and Potter Streets. Scheduled to be performed are William Byrd's "Mass for Three Voices," featuring Virginia Hancock, Bill Kempster and Peter Lovely, and deGrigny's "Organ Mass on the First Tone," played by organist Greg Teeter. The concert will conclude with a performance of Igor Stravinsky's rarely heard "Mass for Choir and Double Wind Quintet," conducted by Charles McDermott. The concert begins at 8:00 p.m. and there is no admission charge.

Architecture slide show slated

The public is invited to a free slide-illustrated talk today at the University by an architect who is experimenting with designing for people's activities.

David Sandahl, visiting assistant professor of architecture will discuss "Role Enactments and Environmental Codes — Architecture As an Experiment" at 4:30 p.m., in 177 Lawrence Hall.

Sandahl's lecture is sponsored by the School of Architecture and Allied Arts as part of a spring series.
