MEETINGS

Once again this spring the Center for Environmental Research and the department of architecture are sponsoring a colloquium on research work that is on-going in the department of architecture. This spring the colloquium series will be held on Wednesdays from 12:30 to 1:30 in 283 Lawrence Hall. The objective of these colloquia is to share with the rest of the department and University community some of the work faculty are currently engaging. The atmosphere is intended to be informal and discussion is encouraged. The subject for Wednesday's colloquium will be G.F. Andrews, professor of architecture, "Maya Cities and Maya Architecture, Placemaking, Urbanization, Building forms and Functions."

BSU positions deadline Wednesday

All members of the Black Student Union interested in running for BSU President, Administrative Assistant or Head Secretary must file in the BSU office by Wednesday. Elections will be held all day Friday in the BSU office, 313 EMU.

Candidates filed Monday afternoon included Carl Stafford for President; Hilda Bennett for Administrative Assistant; and Evon Orr for Head Secretary, according to LeFrancis Arnold, BSU President. All other positions are work study positions and will not be filled until next fall.

The BSU is also interested in getting together an intramural baseball team. All interested BSU members, men and women, should contact the BSU today.

Correction

ASUO Presidential candidate Robert Scholls incorrectly appeared as Schools in a Monday Emerald story on ASUO candidates.

New Maybelline

POWDER-TWIST

A whole new twist in automatic eye shadow.

Powder-Twist is here! It's the first truly automatic powder eye shadow. Just twist twice, and exactly enough soft color is pre-measured onto the little Pillow Wand. Then apply. It goes on smoothly, evenly. And each Powder-Twist case holds hundreds of applications. Try gentle Green, Brown, Blue. Then highlight with Frosty Pink, Frosty Lilac, or Frosty White. Powder-Twist is the eye shadow of the future. Make it yours today.

Maybelline

The finest in eye make-up, yet sensibly priced.

Coed AD topic for informal debate

Should the women and men form one coeducational athletic department? That's the question to be discussed in an informal debate Tuesday night at 6 p.m. in the EMU (room to be posted).

Two women athletes will be debating the subject: Jane Aiken, who has proposed to the Intercollegiate Athletic Committee that a coed Athletic Department be organized, and Gail Hoffnagle, a senior in physical education who is also active in women's sports.

Purpose of the debate is to expose the various points of view on the subject including whether athletic scholarships should be offered to women. Both men and women are encouraged to attend.

Abortion discussion set for tonight

All women are invited to come and participate in a discussion on abortion at 8 p.m. tonight at 1414 Kincaid. There will be women's lunches every Thursday in the EMU from 11:30 to 1:30, room to be posted.

ROTC application deadline April 15

The deadline for applications for the Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps two-year program is April 15. Interested students should contact the Professor of Military Science as soon as practical.

The program is open to University undergraduates who as of next fall, will have at least two academic years before receiving their baccalaureate. The program is also open to graduate students with two years remaining in their program of study. Opportunities to apply for full scholarships are available.

Meditation lecturer slated

Peter Muldavin, the Northwest Regional lecturer for Students International Meditation Society has returned to Eugene to present Introductory lectures on Transcendental Meditation April 10 and 12, 8 p.m., rm. 221 Allen Hall.

Muldavin is a graduate of UC Berkeley, and became a teacher of Transcendental Meditation in 1969 at a teacher training course in India with Maharishi Mahesh Yogi. Since then he has been teaching throughout the U.S. and was a member of the Maharishi International University staff during the 71-72 school year.

Designer to present lecture

Jack Wilkinson, head of Louisiana State University Art Department, will present a lecture entitled "Signs and Symbols Representing an Orientation Originating from a Design Process" at 2:30 p.m. today in 107 Lawrence. Wilkinson, former head of the University Department of Fine and Applied Arts for twenty-five years, is the designer of the mural on the south side of Lawrence Hall.

France study presentation set

Students interested in the Oregon Study Program in Poitiers, France, are invited to attend a slide presentation and discussion by University students who participated in the program last year. The presentation will be held at 7 p.m. today in 204 Chapman Hall. The discussion will be informal, with questions welcomed. Also present will be the new Resident Director of the program for 1973-74, Louis Olivier of the Department of Romance Languages.

Third part of AEC film runs tonight

The third part of the Atomic Energy Commission film "The SL 1 Accident Phases" about the January 3, 1961 nuclear reactor testing station accident in Idaho will be shown at 8 p.m. tonight in Studio C, Audio Visual. The first two parts were shown during finals week of last term.

Phase three of the film concerns what caused the accident, a simulation of the accident and what was done following it in the areas of reactor recovery, demolition of the building and decontamination of the area.

There is no charge for the showing.
