Local groups support Wounded Knee

The Native American Student Union, the Native American Student Association, the Eugene Coalition Liberation Support Movement, the Council of the Poor, the Vietnam Veterans Against the War and Whitebird Clinic have affirmed their support of the Independent Nation of Oglala Sioux at Wounded Knee, South Dakota. They support the Nationwide march on the blockade surrounding Wounded Knee to take place on Sunday, April 22. A caravan will be leaving Eugene on Thursday evening to take badly needed food, medicine, and other essential supplies to the Native Americans in Wounded Knee.

They will be having a rally with Sid Mills, from Frank's Landing in Washington, at noon on Saturday and a benefit barbeque on Sunday. For further information call the Native American Student Union at 686-3723, the Eugene Coalition Liberation Support Movement at 343-8387, or the Council of the Poor at 688-7789.

Supplies can be taken to the Native American Student Union at the University and to the Wounded Knee Support Group at 37 West 7th, Eugene.

Workshops for Mature Women planned

Two workshops on Life Planning for Mature Women will be held during the University Summer Session.

The first workshop will be scheduled for June 18-22 and will be repeated from Aug. 6-10.

The workshops will allow mature women to explore their interests, abilities, and values, participate in small-group discussions with other women, learn from experts the advantages and disadvantages of volunteerism, work, or further schooling, and develop skills in making personal and career decisions.

Women will participate in interest testing and receive interpretations of the tests from qualified staff members. The workshops may be taken with or without college credit.

Pre-registration must be completed three weeks before the workshop date so that vocational testing can be completed before the workshop begins.

The workshops are being sponsored by the Oregon Center for Gerontology with partial support from the Administration on Aging and the Social and Rehabilitation Service of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Those wishing further information, including details on fees and housing accommodations, should write to Donna M. McKenzie, Oregon Center for Gerontology, 1597 Agate St., Eugene 97403, or call 686-4307.

Celebration will honor Cinco de Mayo

A two day celebration will be held by Chicanos at the University and Lane Community College on May 4 and 5 in honor of Cinco de Mayo, commemorating the defeat of the French by the Mexican army at Puebla in 1862 and the end of foreign imperialism.

La Fiesta de Cinco de Mayo will open on the University campus May 4, starting at 12:30 in the EMU with a concert by Mariachis and last throughout the day. On May 5, the celebration will move to the LCC campus cafeteria area for the day.

Featured speaker for both days will be Robert Olmos, Mexican-American reporter for the Oregonian.

Events throughout the two days, including a dance on Friday evening, and a Mexican dinner Saturday night, are free of charge and open to the public.

Malarkey receives Fulbright lectureship

Dr. Stoddard Malarkey, associate professor of English and director of English composition at the University, has received a Fulbright Lectureship for the 1973-74 academic year.

He will leave in mid-September to be a lecturer in English and American literature at the University of Jordan in Amman.

Malarkey is a specialist in medieval literature. He joined the University faculty in 1965, after earning his Ph.D. degree at Oregon and teaching at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Bailey named voice chairer

Exine Bailey, professor of music at the University, has been named voice chairer for the Music Teachers National Association for the next biennium.

The University voice teacher recently attended the group's convention in Philadelphia where she was in charge of auditions for high school and collegiate singers and participated in a panel discussion.
