UN officer to speak in forum

Whitman Bassow, senior public affairs officer for the United Nations Environmental Program, will be the guest speaker Thursday night for the Environmental Forum which is being sponsored by the University's Environmental Studies Center, this week.

Bassow will be talking on the United Nations latest actions and recommendations on environmental problems and will begin speaking at 8 p.m. in the EMU.

Wednesday night, Bassow will be featured as a guest on KZEL radio's "American Circus" at 7 p.m. and will discuss the seriousness of global environmental problems and the U.N.'s effectiveness in dealing with them. Also on the "American Circus" panel with him will be Evelyn McConnaughey, Richard Noyes and H.R. Blank.

Sally Herbert, who is in charge of the Forum for the Environmental Studies Center, comments that naturally "we'd like to have a good turnout for Bassow's lecture on Thursday night. We'd like to fill the ballroom because we really feel that what he has to offer is highly beneficial."

"He will speak on the environmental problems of the world," Herbert says, "hoping to bring people's attention to the global environmental problems that do exist and the role that the United States will have in solving them."

Bassow is also scheduled to speak at the DemoForum on Thursday at noon at the International King's Table in the Oakway Mall.

Also planned for the week long Environmental Forum, already in progress, is a photo exhibit that is currently in display on the second floor of the EMU; a coffee hour to be held at 9:15 a.m. on Thursday morning in room 101 EMU when Bassow will meet informally with interested students and faculty; and a Man and His Environment class which is scheduled for 250 Clinical Services Building at 2 p.m. the same day with Bassow as guest and speaker.

He is also scheduled to be a guest on the Sunshine Fair which will broadcast on Channel 12 over the cable sometime during his stay. He is arriving from New York via Seattle and will speak in Eugene and then travel to Corvallis and Portland on a busy speaking schedule.

Herbert relates that the main purpose of this Environmental conference, and Bassow's appearance, is to give an "international, informative perspective on the whole spectrum of the world's environment." Basically, she says, it is to "get more people aware of their environmental world and to be involved."

On Campus

Directing class to present plays

The University directing class is presenting their one acts today and Wednesday in the Pocket Playhouse at Villard Hall. There is no admission charge for the plays.

The plays, "How He Lied to Her Husband" by George Bernard Shaw, "Answers" by Tom Topor, "Inapromptu" by Tad Mosel, "Why" by John Whiting and "Macbeth VIII" adapted by Herbert Prescott, will be shown at 4 p.m. today and 8 p.m. on Wednesday.

"Love in a French Kitchen," "The Case of the Crushed Petunias" by Tennessee Williams, "Soul Gone Home" by Langston Hughes, "Little Pieces" by Monte Merrick and "The Artist" by A.A. Milne will be presented at 8 p.m. tonight and 4 p.m. on Wednesday.

Fishbowl Follies to feature Barclay

Maggie Barclay will return for another performance as featured artist of the Fishbowl Follies this week. She will perform in the EMU Fishbowl at 8:30 p.m. tonight.

The Follies will include its regular Wednesday night "Free Mike" program which also begins at 8:30 p.m.

No admission is charged and all events are open to the campus community.

Funk to lecture on New Testament

"The Magic Beyond Truth" will be the title of a lecture by Robert Funk at 8 p.m. tonight in 101 EMU. Funk is a member of the department of religious studies at the University of Montana and is one of the leading authorities in the world today on the use of language in the New Testament. He has published numerous books and articles on the Greek language of the New Testament period and on Jesus' parables. The lecture will deal with the understanding and use of language of Jesus, Wittgenstein and several modern authors.

Logan to read poetry

A free noon reading of poetry will be given by John Logan today in the EMU, room to be posted. Logan is professor of creative writing at the State University of New York in Buffalo and formerly held the Theodore Roethke poetry chair at the University of Washington. He has published several books of poetry and is the former poetry editor of The Nation.

Noon recital to feature varied works

Today's noon organ recitals will feature the music of Johann Sebastian Bach, Louis Couperin and Marcel Dupre at 12:30 p.m. in the School of Music Recital Hall.

Terry Van Nelson will open the program with the Bach C minor trio sonata. Randy Bourne will follow with Louis Couperin's suite in D minor. The Dupre Prelude Fugue in G minor will close the program.

Noted harpsichordist to perform

Leonard Raver, a performer on the organ and the harpsichord, will give a free recital at 8 p.m. tonight in the School of Music Recital Hall.

As an organist, Raver has been heard as a recitalist throughout the United States and Europe. As a harpsichordist, he has performed Bach's Fifth Brandenburg Concerto with the Festival Orchestra of New York at Philharmonic Hall, appeared frequently with the Musica Aeterna Orchestra at the Metropolitan Museum of Art and accompanied the oboist Bert Lucarelli at Alice Tully Hall, Lincoln Center. Raver has degrees from three American universities, has made frequent contributions to professional music journals of articles and reviews and has served on the faculties of several colleges and universities.

Correction

On page seven of Monday's Emerald, a picture accompanying an article on the viewpoint of McCall Tax Plan opponent Rep. Stafford Hansell (R-Hermiston) was incorrectly not that of Hansell. The picture was actually one of Rep. Sam Johnson (R-Redmond).
