

Meryl Barker qualifies unnoticed for national AAU next month

Running quietly and almost unnoticed in the fading light at Hayward Field Tuesday night was Meryl Barker, winner of the women's mile.

She broke the five-minute barrier of the women's mile run with a 4:58.7 and qualified for the national AAU meet three weeks away in June.

Barker's time rates high on the list of the country's national competition.

"When you get under five minutes, you're getting into a pretty elite group," said Ron Brinkert, Meryl's coach during the regular season at Oregon. "You're talking about the top twenty in the country. I guess it would be comparable to the four-minute barrier for men."

Barker is quite satisfied with her performance, especially after missing considerable training during the off-season because of a hip injury. "You really need that off-season training for strength. I didn't get it because of a bad hip."

Now that she is past the one barrier, she's looking forward to the AAU's. "I'll just be trying to make the finals there," she said. "That's really all I can hope for after missing the training."

She's already aiming at next year. Cross-country competition in the fall will help her regain her strength and work with her personal coach Clayton Steinke will help.

Barker became the third Oregon runner to break the five-minute barrier. Ona Dobratz and Debbie Roth have both already eclipsed the mark, and also one aiming at the AAU's.

Softballers fall twice

Errors and inconsistent pitching spelled defeat for Oregon's A softball team last weekend. The women's A team lost games to both Oregon College of Education and Oregon State in the Oregon Collegiate Sports day Saturday.

The A team won, however, a game against the Burton's, a Corvallis city league team.

The Oregon B team lost both of its games to OCE and OSU.

The squads from OCE finished the day with a perfect no-loss record.

The Sportsday ended regular play for both women's teams. Thursday the combined teams will play a team composed of graduate students and faculty of the women's P.E. department.

The top hitter for the season for Oregon's A team was pitcher Carolyn Pura. She had a .464 batting average. Shortstop Peggy McCormick followed with .416.

The B teams' top hitters, left-fielder Dorris Vance and catcher Jackie Lehman, did not participate in Saturday's Sportsday. Vance had a .470 average; Lehman batted .421.

Scores for Saturday's games were: Oregon A lost to OCE A team 10-1, Oregon A lost to OSU A 7-6 (extra inning necessary) and Oregon A defeated Burton's 16-6. Oregon B lost to OSU B 10-7 and Oregon B lost to OCE B 16-15 (extra inning necessary).
