

'History' to be compiled by LCC

In preparation for observing its tenth anniversary next year, Lane Community College is compiling material for a comprehensive history of the old Eugene Technical-Vocational School (ETVS), but it needs help from the attics, scrap books, photo albums and memories of Lane County citizens to do it.

Anyone with newspaper clippings, photographs, class rosters or any other information about the school can help by calling the LCC Information and Publications Office (747-4501, ext. 340 or 349), or by writing David Butler, Lane Community College, P.O. Box E, Eugene, 97401.

All printed material received will be carefully catalogued and returned to its owner upon completion of the project. Additionally, the college is also looking for former students and staff members to interview, particularly from the school's early years, 1938-1950.

The ETVS was founded in the winter of 1938 and continued until it was absorbed by the new Lane Community College on July 1, 1965. It was the first city-owned school of its kind in the country, and during its existence, trained some 50,000 students in everything from aircraft mechanics to understanding food rationing during the war.

After it is written, the ETVS history will be printed by a local printer and be available to the public at a low cost.
