Nominations sought for service award

Nominations are being solicited for the University's Distinguished Service Award.

The award, presented annually at the June commencement, is in recognition of persons "who by their knowledge and skills have made a significant contribution to the cultural development of Oregon or society as a whole." No more than three awards are made in any one year. Current members of the faculty, staff, and students are not eligible for the award.

Documented nominations, with references, should be sent to the selection committee for the Distinguished Service Award, President's Office, University of Oregon, Eugene, Oregon, 97403. Deadline for receiving nominations is November 1, 1973.

Liberal Arts gets two administrators

Paul Holbo, acting dean of the College of Liberal Arts, has announced that two members of the faculty have been named to administrative positions in the College.

Charles Wright, professor of mathematics, has been appointed associate dean for academic personnel. A member of the University faculty since 1961, he holds baccalaureate and masters degrees from the University of Nebraska and a doctorate from the University of Wisconsin. His field in mathematics is finite group theory.

Jane Gray, professor of biology and curator of paleobotany in the Museum of Natural History, is the new secretary of the College faculty. She is a graduate of Radcliffe, and received her doctorate from the University of California, Berkeley. She has been at the University of Oregon since 1963. Author of more than 40 papers and reviews, her interests are in paleobotany and palynology (study of pollens and spores.)

Washington lawyer available for discussion

Ronald Plessner, a Washington, D.C. lawyer associated with the Center for Study of Responsive Law, is interested in meeting with students and/or other groups to discuss the federal Freedom of Information Act.

Further information on how a group, university department or school can arrange a meeting or conference can be obtained from the Oregon Student Public Interest Research Group (OSPIRG) at 686-4073. Direct information can be had by writing: Center For Study of Responsive Law, P.O. Box 19367, Washington, D.C. 20036, telephone 202-785-3704.

BRING sets pickup dates for recyclables

The BRING recycling organization will have a truck at the corner of 13th and University Streets from 1 to 3 p.m. one Sunday a month. This truck will pick up recyclable materials—aluminum, glass and tin, but no paper. The material should be boxed in cardboard or brown paper bags. Metals should be flattened, glass should be rinsed, but labels may be left on.

The truck will be available Oct. 21, Nov. 18 and Dec. 2. Nothing should be left at the site at any other time. The University's Physical Plant will pick up all other materials and will not recycle them. Material should be left only during the announced hours.
