Executive board elected by research group

David "Rocky" Johnson was elected the new OSPIRG state Board of Directors Chairperson in Monmouth last Sunday.

Johnson, a Portland State University graduate student in sociology, was formerly the organization's state treasurer.

Johnson and four other officers from the executive committee elected by representatives from the 16 member schools.

Sally Rose, a sophomore at Willamette is the new vice-chairperson. Glen McDonald, a senior at Linfield is the state treasurer. John Babbitt from the newly accepted Willamette University School of Law is the corporate secretary. John Savage, a senior from OSU, was elected as the fifth member of the committee.

Johnson, the former state treasurer for OSPIRG, replaced acting chairperson Savage after defeating opposing candidate Pete Glazer.

The state representatives meeting at Monmouth also discussed the establishment of a full time staff position in Eugene, but a decision on the issue was delayed.
