

Not just Halloween

For those new students who read in Friday's Emerald that the drop deadline isn't until Nov. 21: start sweating again. The last day any new student can drop a class without it being recorded as a "W" grade is Halloween, Oct. 31. So when you're getting ready to go trick-or-treating, don't forget that other little item.

Finance project wins grant for University

A University project that finds ways for cities to save money on bonds has received a $25,100 grant from the National Science Foundation.

The grant will fund the project through September, 1976.

Entitled "Cost Savings to State and Local Governments in the Selling of New Bonds," the project was started with NSF funds in 1973. It has developed method for figuring interest on municipal bonds, known as the True Interest Cost (TIC) method. Officials estimate the TIC method can save $20 to $40 million annually in interest paid by cities issuing new bonds.

The project also includes counseling to municipal finance officers, bond attorneys and municipal consultants, and a computer program to figure TIC based bids.

George Kaufman, University professor of banking and finance, is the project director.

SEMINARS

The Outdoor Program will present a slide show on preservation of the Lower Illinois River Country in southwestern Oregon tonight at 7:30 in 101 EMU. Slides of whitewater and backpacking possibilities in this area will be shown and discussion of the present Forest Service management proposals will follow.

PSI Horizons will hold a workshop in channelling tonight at 7 in 216 Allen. Participants from a contactee group will discuss recent communiques, methods and precognitive messages received through the "borderland world" of the superconscious mind. PSI Horizons Workshop meets regularly twice weekly: Thursdays from 2:30 to 4:20 p.m. in 307 Deady and Tuesdays at 7 p.m. in 216 Allen.

The Eugene People's Law School will conduct a class designed to help Eugene-Springfield residents find out more about welfare and food stamps Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at Central Presbyterian Church, 15th Avenue and Ferry Street, in the main floor conference room. The public is welcome free of charge.

A rational-emotive therapy group will begin meeting every Wednesday from 3 to 5 p.m. in 339 Susan Campbell Hall. The orientation of this group will be based upon the principles of Rational-Emotive Therapy (RET) as designed by Dr. Albert Ellis. For those not familiar with RET, it is a cognitive-behavioral approach to psychotherapy. Readings will be recommended; however, this group is not meant to be a class in RET. Its purpose is to equip members with a methodology they can use for self-help at any time. Contact the Counseling center, ext. 3227, for further information.

MISCELLANEOUS

Legal Connections, the University's law school legal referral service, is now open. It is a free, completely confidential service staffed by students at the law school. It is open from 6 to 10 p.m., Monday through Friday, during the school year. The service is closed from Dec. 4 to Jan 10 and from March 19 to 28 for vacations. If you have a legal problem, call 686-3829.

Student Living Organization cards are again available to those who might need telephone numbers of dormitories, fraternities, sororities or co-op houses. These may be obtained at the main desk of the EMU or the telephone exchange, Johnson Hall.

The Eugene Friends of the Farm Workers will hold a mass picket at Albertson's Food Center, 18th Avenue and Chambers Street, from 4 to 6 p.m.

The purpose of the picket is to encourage the citizens of Eugene-Springfield to continue to boycott non-UFW head lettuce, grapes and Gallo wine sold at Albertson's and other local grocery stores. The boycott will remain in effect until disputed California elections involving the UFW and the Teamsters are settled and until the growers sign contracts with those workers who have already voted for UFW representation. For further information contact Bill Ratteree, or Herb Everett, 345-0709.

Flu vaccine will be available at the Student Health Center for students, faculty and staff on Wednesday from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. If you miss the all-day clinic, you can still get flu vaccine any Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday from 8 to 9 a.m.

The charge for vaccine is $1 for students and $2 for faculty and staff.

An informal introduction to the teachings of the Ascended Masters of the Great White Brotherhood and to the Science of the Spoken Word is offered every Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at 1151 Water St. (off Centennial Boulevard in Springfield). The classes are sponsored by Summit International, a religious and philosophical organization bridging Eastern and Western thought. For more information, call 746-2314.

Army stores deadly toxins for research

EDGEWOOD, Md. (AP) — U.S. Army officials contend that the storage of eight deadly toxins left over from biological warfare research does not violate the intent of a presidential order in 1970 to dispose of all such substances.

According to an Army spokesman at Edgewood Arsenal, the order in February, 1970 by then-President Richard Nixon pertained only to offensive biological and chemical warfare materials. The spokesman said the six samples here and two at Dugway Proving Grounds in Utah were being used "to research defensive weapons systems."

NBC News disclosed over the weekend that the Army continues to store the toxins, which includes a variety of Hawaiian coral maintained in large enough quantities to kill two thousand people. The Army also is storing several strains of snake venom.
