Armstrong to receive London post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anne Armstrong, the highest ranking woman in government during the Nixon administration, will be named ambassador to Great Britain, government officials report.

The White House declined to confirm the nomination on Tuesday, but sources said privately that she would be nominated. They expressed optimism that her nomination would be confirmed by the Senate.

The appointment would make Armstrong, 48, the first American woman named ambassador to a major embassy since Clare Boothe Luce served as U.S. ambassador to Rome from 1952 to 1957. She also would be the first woman envoy named by a major country to London, officials said.

Armstrong was co-chairer of the Republican National Committee from 1971 to 1973. She stepped down to become a presidential counselor under Presidents Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford.

She is married to millionaire Texas cattleman Tobin Armstrong of Armstrong, Tex. The couple has five children.

In the London post, Armstrong would succeed Elliot Richardson as U.S. ambassador to the Court of St. James. Richardson is now Secretary of Commerce.
