Frerichs does Would you believe Beavers by one?

Despite being ripped 83-68 by Oregon Saturday, Oregon State is expected to down the Ducks by a point when the two teams tangle Thursday night in Portland. Or so says Emerald prognosticator Glen Frerichs.

Oregon, points out Frerichs, is rapidly closing in on the Beavers in his ratings and would be favored to win if the game were to be played at The Pit. At neutral Memorial Coliseum, however, Oregon State is rated a slight favorite to win the third of four Civil War clashes this winter.

In other traditional Pacific-8 rivalries, Washington is picked by 14 points over surprising Washington State in a regional-televised game Saturday afternoon and UCLA is favored by 11 over USC Saturday night.

Pacific-8

| Team                   | Pac-8 | Season | Rating |
|------------------------|-------|--------|--------|
| 1. Washington          | 3-1   | 16-1   | 80.49  |
| 2. UCLA                | 3-1   | 14-3   | 76.73  |
| 3. Oregon State        | 4-1   | 12-5   | 74.53  |
| 4. Oregon              | 2-3   | 10-9   | 73.54  |
| 5. Stanford            | 1-4   | 6-10   | 70.97  |
| 6. Washington State    | 3-1   | 12-3   | 69.69  |
| 7. Southern California | 0-4   | 11-6   | 69.66  |
| 8. California          | 2-3   | 10-6   | 69.32  |

Bruins drop from AP's Top Ten

(AP) — No, Oregon isn't in the Top Twenty this week.

The Ducks however, did kick Oregon State from 13th to 16th in the rankings released Tuesday with their 83-68 win Saturday night.

Meanwhile, Washington moved from eighth to sixth after a pair of wins in Hawaii and UCLA dropped from sixth to an unaccustomed spot outside the top Ten after its 95-85 loss to Notre Dame.

Indiana, 16-0, garnered all but one of the 60 first place votes.

Although this shot by Oregon's Sally McInturf was close to the basket, the Ducks didn't get a final victory as the visiting Portland State team handed the varsity women's basketball team a 32-24 setback Tuesday night at Gerlinger Annex.
