Villard's story now available

The story of how Henry Villard donated the University's first reference books is the featured selection in the spring edition of "Imprint: Oregon," a publication of the University library.

The article was written by George Belknap, University editor emeritus.

Villard was a benefactor to the University during its early history. In addition to providing the library's first reference collection, he helped save the University from a sheriff's auction.

As president of the Oregon and California Railroad Company, Villard gave the University some $7,000 to cover the major portion of unpaid debts that had been accrued during the construction of the school's first building — now named Deady Hall.

In 1881, Villard promised to donate $1,000 for a library. He also undertook to have the most suitable works of reference "selected by competent experts."

The 359 books were finally shipped to the University in 1882 and, says the article, "they were in some ways a remarkable collection."

The collection ran contrary to the curriculum at the time which emphasized Greek, Latin, German and French languages, mathematics, physics, chemistry, geology and biology.

It included 243 volumes of political history, 26 volumes of literary history and eight volumes of art history. "Ancient and modern non-English philology...and translations of ancient historians was represented by a sparse selection of dictionaries, the sciences by nine volumes."

"Imprint: Oregon" is edited by Martin Schmitt, special collections curator, E.C. Kemp, acquisitions librarian and Keith Richard, archivist, and is now available for $1 from the library.

cause only a few people knew of its existence, says the Sierra Club.

The second film, "West Chichagof," shows the ongoing struggle between the U.S. Forest Service and conservationists over the fate of this island in the Alaskan panhandle. At issue is the forest service's ability to clearcut the island and the effect of the recent Tongass court decision banning clearcutting in Alaska.

Burrows slated to speak tonight

Mary Burrows, incumbent democratic candidate for state representative from District 41, will address the ASUO-sponsored SEARCH class on student legislative issues tonight at 7 in the EMU Forum. All students are invited to attend.

Eugene council seeks planner

The Eugene City Council is again inviting citizen applications for appointment to one of the city's major decision-making bodies.

Before appointing someone to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Planning Commissioner Howard Bonnett, the council will review applications received earlier this year from citizens who indicated interest in the planning commission.

Other persons wishing to be considered for the appointment may obtain an application from the city manager's office, 777 Pearl St. Applications must be returned to the manager's office by 5 p.m. Monday for consideration.

Persons who on earlier applications designated service on the planning commission as a low priority interest are welcome to file a revised application if they wish to be considered for the appointment.

The new appointment will be for the remainder of Bonnett's four-year term, which will expire Jan. 1, 1979.

Sierra Club to show films

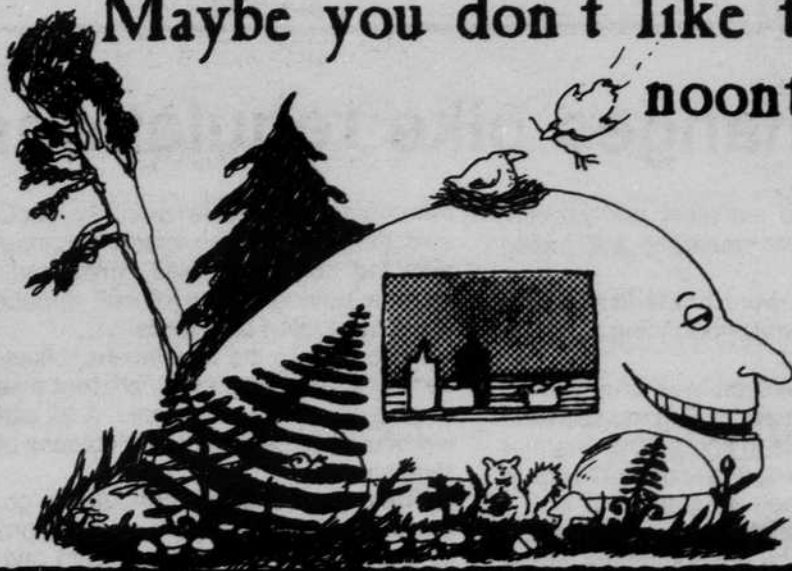

The Eugene chapter of the Sierra Club will be holding its monthly evening program tonight at 7:30. The program will be presented in Courtroom #1 in City Hall and will feature two Sierra Club films "Glen Canyon" and "West Chichagof." The public is invited.

The film "Glen Canyon" is concerned with the loss of what some claimed was one of the most scenic areas in Utah's canyonlands. The area was flooded be-

The "briefs" section is for campus and community announcements. No brief will be published that charges an admission or donation fee. However, classes that charge tuition or dinner events that offer a free program even to those who do not buy a dinner will be accepted.

All briefs must be typed, triple-spaced in a 65-unit margin. Handwritten briefs will be given low priority. Briefs will be published one time only in any seven-day period, as space permits.

MEETINGS

The Psi Center (parapsychology, the metaphysical, spiritual science) will hold an informal meeting today from 11 to 3 in an EMU Century Room (to be posted) on the third floor of the EMU-II. All interested in the programs, resources and plans of the Psi Studies Interdisciplinary Center (an ASUO-SEARCH program) are invited to attend. Bring your lunch or drink, and a dream — a creation — a vision — or your supernatural perceptions, and drop in with Psi Center and your own intuition.

Hawaii Club members. For those who are interested, there will be a bowling meeting, Sunday, at 2 p.m. Meet downstairs by the EMU lanes. If there are any questions call Dean or Glen.

There will be a meeting of Students for Udall today at 4 p.m. in one of the Century Rooms of the EMU to discuss the campus campaign. All interested students are welcome to attend.

AV FILMS

The following instructional rental films have arrived early. Faculty may schedule them for classes with the audiovisual media center before 2:30 p.m. the day before they are needed. Students or faculty may request showings on a first-served basis Monday through Friday between 6 and 10 in the evening. Films are not available after the showdate listed below.
