

Black Arts Festival

A local gospel choir, a beauty clinic featuring African beauty hints and the staging of "The Militant Priest" will headup events today as the Black Arts Festival moves into its fourth day of activities.

Today's festival events will open with a 12:25 p.m. performance by the Eugene Community Gospel Choir in the EMU courtyard. The drama "The Militant Priest" will be staged at 1:30 in the EMU Ballroom.

A beauty clinic, featuring African headwraps, Afro hairdo grooming and African braiding, will begin at 2:30 p.m. on the EMU's second floor. A talent show highlighted by gospel, blues, jazz and black poetry presentations, will wrap up the day's events at 7:30 tonight.

Festival activities slated for Friday include a 12:25 p.m. address by Huel Perkins, head of the humanities department at Southern University in Baton Rouge, La., the staging of the drama "Soul Gone Home" at 1:30 p.m. and a black fashion show at 7 p.m. All three events will take place in the EMU Ballroom.

Friday's festival activities will conclude with a 9 p.m. dance in the ballroom.

information that the EOC is turning over to them, they will, in fact, be dealing with the whole situation," she said. "Individual complaints will be focused in one direction. We hope that the nature of the investigation will lead them to look at the total situation."

The EOC had suggested naming a special Senate committee to conduct the investigation.

Barbara Koser, a former EOC member, said she hopes the grievance committee develops flexible operating procedures. "The abuses were of a very large scope and it would be a mistake to limit the investigation," she said. "I hope they (the grievance committee) adopt procedures where they can get the sense of what the complaints were."

The grievance committee was established in May, 1972, by the Faculty Senate, and was described then by Chapin Clark, present law school dean, as "a safety valve for problems that hit a bottleneck." The types of grievances it initially handled were not defined and the committee reserved the right to refer cases to other grievance committees sponsored by the Senate.

Carmack describes the committee as a negotiating and investigating body which seeks to solve problems and provide compromises between the complainant and the persons or departments complained about.

Four faculty members and four students serve on the committee. Robert Bowlen, dean of students; Roy Poole, associate teacher education professor; Carmack, Ward and students John Crandall, John Curtis and Steve Beard serve currently.

ASUO Pres. Jim Bernau says he is seeking a fourth student representative.

A new chair of the committee will be chosen at the meeting today. Carmack has recently moved to Salem and will no longer chair the committee.

an astounding double feature Sunday May 16
at 7:30.

Martin Scorsese's MEAN STREETS

The surprise star of the 1974 New York film festival, MEAN STREETS caused the critics to go into ecstasies of raving adjectives. Taking place in New York's little Italy, the film delineates the struggles and decisions faced by Harvey Keitel as he slowly climbs into the hierarchy of the local Mafia family. With Robert DeNiro of TAXI DRIVER fame, as John Boy. also, at 9:30

Werner HERZOG'S FATA MORGANA (the Mirage)

The Gobi Desert becomes a metaphor for man's existence and his relationship with nature. Herzog manipulates natural and man-made images as symbols of cosmic importance. At the 1971 N.Y. film festival FATA MORGANA'S revolutionary avant garde vision created a strong controversy. 180 PLC $1 for both shows! 10644:14
