

A Hint of Summer

The University of Oregon is adorned with many beautiful flowers, and most people take them for granted. Have a heart, next time you pass by an eye pleasing bouquet, stop and take the time to fill your lungs with the satisfying fragrance of a blooming flower bud — unless, of course, you are one of the unfortunate people who are plagued with hay fever.

Photos by Kernie Steinhauer

