

AFSCME local elects officers

Local 1893 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) has elected new officers for one year terms beginning June 1.

Positions filled during a Wednesday meeting of the student food services employees' union included: Jack Condliffe, president; Heidi Zopf, vice-president for the EMU; William Frye, vice-president for housing; Donald Foster, treasurer; and Karen Skeen, secretary.

Other action at the meeting involved the creation of four executive board positions to be appointed upon majority agreement of the elected officers. Scott Higgins was tentatively appointed as chief steward. The names of the additional members have not been released.

Urquhart's second motion, seeking to establish a faculty committee to implement post-tenure review, received unanimous approval. He said procedures for the review were set down as long ago as 1967, and were expressly referred to in the 1974 administrative memos.

"It's time that the faculty take it in their own hands to have some sort of post-tenure review in accordance with the memos," Urquhart said. "It's slipped by too long."
