

New appointments made

The University's liberal arts college underwent a wave of transition last week, making new appointments in nine of its department staffs.

Heading the list is Daniel Weill, a geology professor who secured a three-year term as the college's associate dean for academic personnel. He replaces Charles Wright, a University mathematics professor, who will return to full-time teaching and research after a sabbatical leave.

Four other liberal arts professors advanced to department head positions: Albert Kitzhaber, English; Bernd Crasemann, physics; John Orbell, political science; and William Calin, romance languages. All will serve three-year appointments.

In addition, four new acting department heads will serve during the 1976-77 academic year: Melvin Aikens, anthropology; Robert Lang, history; Kenneth Ross, mathematics; and Stephen Reynolds, religious studies.

Ross and Reynolds temporarily replace Fred Andrews and Jack Sanders, who will begin new three-year appointments as heads in their respective departments when they return from academic leave in 1977-78.

Committee positions open

Lane County Commissioners are looking for individuals to serve on a Citizens' Advisory Committee on Adult Corrections.

This committee advises the Lane County Sheriff on Lane County's corrections program.

Persons interested in serving on the committee should contact the Lane County Commissioners' Office, Room 200, Lane County Courthouse, Eugene, Or., 97401.

Deadline for applying is July 30.

Smoking study slated by clinic

Persons who have resumed smoking within the past year, after having quit for at least two weeks, are targets of the University's Psychology Clinic for a special study on why people take up smoking again.

Although psychologists have some idea why people start smoking initially, very little is known about why they resume smoking, according to Giles Rainwater of the clinic. Edward Lichtenstein, Clinic director, is directing the new study. It is the first such research conducted at the University, although smoking research has been under way at the clinic for several years.

The study is funded by the Heart and Lung Institute of the National Institutes of Health for $5,000. Each volunteer will be paid $2.50.

Persons interested in participating may call 343-8952 until Thursday between 4 and 9 p.m.

Childbirth series offered

The Lane County Community Health and Social Services Department will offer a series of childbirth education classes Thursday through Sept. 2, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Classes will be held at the Eugene Health Division, 399 E. 10th Ave., Eugene. Another series which began Wednesday and continues through Aug. 25 is being held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Springfield Health Division Office, 221 B. St., Springfield.

The fee for each series of eight classes is $5 per couple. Couples are encouraged to attend, but classes are open to all interested persons.

Family planning increases fees

Effective July 1, all Family Planning Clinic fees will be increased according to Ardie Amis, program manager for the Lane County Health Division's Family Planning and Maternal and Child Health Services.

The Board of Lane County Commissioners approved the increase June 23 because the grant from the State Health Division supporting the program had been reduced by $30,000 from the original request. Local funding for the program had also been cut back.

The Community Health Advisory Committee had made the fee increase recommendation after considering a variety of alternatives. Due to budget reductions rural services will have to be limited.

Persons interested in the program's services or in learning more about the fee schedules may call the Family Planning Clinic at 687-4361 or may come to the clinic located in the Hult Plaza at 401 East 10th Ave., Room 3 E. No one would be denied services because they are unable to pay, says Amis.

Paper deadline nears

Papers are still being considered for presentation at the symposium "The Individual Psychology of Alfred Adler," Oct. 22 and 23.

The symposium is the second in the "Pathfinders in Human Personality" series sponsored by the Division of Developmental Studies & Services of the University's College of Education.

Speakers for the Adlerian Symposium to date include Drs. Heinz and Rowena Ansbacher, Dr. Robert Leeper, Dr. Raymond Lowe and Rod Johnston. Additional presentors will be selected subsequent to the July 23 deadline for submitting papers.

Papers submitted should be written with the historical perspective of the symposium and addressing theory rather than practice, complementary of other scheduled presentations, exemplary of clarity and over-all scholarship, appropriate for a forty-five minute to one hour presentation and authored by students.

For further information contact DeBusk Memorial Center at the University, 686-3418.

Samoa spectacular set

Fifty singers, dancers and musicians from Pago Pago, American Samoa will perform a Samoa Spectacular Saturday at 8 p.m. on stage at the Portland Civic Auditorium. The performance, sponsored by the Government of American Samoa as an American Bicentennial event, will be part of the group's third American tour and its second visit to the Pacific Northwest.

Directed by Palauni

Tuiasosopo, the large group was organized to maintain and perform the folk music and dances of the Samoan people. Their visit is made possible through grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and the Legislature of American Samoa.

Reserved seats, priced at $5, $4 and $3 are on sale now at Celebrity Attractions, 1010 S.W. Morrison, Portland, Ore. 97205.

MEETINGS

Common Cause, the non-partisan citizen's lobby, has scheduled an orientation meeting in the EMU at 5 p.m. today. A short film on Common Cause's nation-wide lobbying activities will be shown. In addition, local Common Cause members will discuss Common Cause's activities in Oregon, and explain how interested citizens can participate.

Do you want to know more about yourself? Do you want to know more about how others experience you? A workshop focused on exploring your personal potential and sharing interaction with others is being offered for six weeks this summer at the University Counseling Center. This unique interpersonal experience will begin today and meet for six successive weeks, Tuesday evenings from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Registration is limited to 15. For information call the Counseling Center, 686-3227.

INTERVIEWS

Need a job? The Resume Writing Workshop provides instruction in writing an effective resume. Sign-up in the Career Planning & Placement Service Office, 246 Susan Campbell Hall. Effective resumes get interviews—effective interviews get jobs. Learn to interview effectively. Use video-tape feedback. Workshops are also available on coping skills in the job market. More information is available at the main desk of Career Planning & Placement Service.

The Career Planning & Placement Service offers assistance in obtaining a job in business or government. All services are free to students.

MISCELLANEOUS

The Survival Center is organizing a day hike from Kitten Rock to Adams Mountain in Fairview Forest Saturday, about 10 miles round trip, over steep, rugged, unmaintained trail. Departure is 9 a.m. from the Amazon Community Center parking lot (Hilyard Street and 26th Avenue). Bring lunch, water, wear long trousers (trail is brushy) and share cars and gas. Contact Dorinda Bankston at 747-9002.

Sunday there will be a six mile hike over sand dunes in the Umpqua Dunes Scenic Area. Departure same time and place as above. Leader Joe Wallick - 686-0185.

The Psi Center is sponsoring an excursion to Southern Oregon to visit the Gold Hill Oregon Vortex Friday evening and Saturday all day. The Vortex, considered to be a scientifically valid anomaly, exhibits "warp" phenomena, manifesting as aberrations of the gravity, magnetism, light and other wave propagation; and according to certain percipients, the bioenergetic fields affecting and stimulating human and animal consciousness are magnified. Vortex notes and the ridepool sign-up sheet are posted on the Psi Center bulletin board in the SEARCH office.
