Men netters fall

The University's men's tennis team lost more than just its match with Washington Saturday.

While the men netters were going down to defending Pac-8 Northern Division champ Washington, 7-2, they were also losing their No. 2 singles player, senior Steve Hard.

Hard suffered a strained back muscle and was forced to default to the Husky's Rick Grant. Hard will be out indefinitely.

Conrad Lopez and Russ Childers gained the only victories for the Ducks in the Saturday match. Lopez bested Washington's Keith Schuster, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3 while Childers saddled Tom Wall with a 6-3, 3-6, 6-3 loss.

WASHINGTON 7, OREGON 2

Singles—Greenberg (W) def. Wilson, 6-4, 6-2; Grant (W) def. Hard, 6-2, 4-3 (Hard default due to strained back muscle); Wai Ching (W) def. Lau, 6-2, 6-2; Henderson (W) def. Benezra, 6-4, 2-6, 7-6; Lopez (O) def. Schuster, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3; Childers (O) def. Wall, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

Doubles—Greenberg—Schuster (W) def. Wilson—Glider, 6-4, 6-4; Grant—Wai Ching (W) def. LU—Lopez, 7-5, 3-6, 6-0; Wall and Litzau (W) def. Childers—Benezra, 5-7, 7-6, 6-3.

'We need money too badly'

Financial problems may bar Bruins' return

UCLA track coach Jim Bush critically surveyed the West grandstand at Hayward Field Saturday afternoon after his team had just beaten Oregon for the ninth time in nine meetings. But the 82½-71½ Bruin victory wasn't the main thing on Bush's mind.

"I've seen that grandstand completely filled before," he said of the stands which had seated only 7,100 spectators for the Ducks' biggest home meet of the season. "There were 10,000 people here the last time we came up."

Bush wasn't as worried about the attendance as he was about the possibility of the UCLA-Oregon dual meet rivalry falling dead to the financial giant, which has been plaguing sports at an ever-increasing rate in recent years.

"I have a hunch this will be the last meet for us here (UCLA)," he said quietly, truly annoyed. "We need the money too badly. We can't afford to come here and spend one night at $7,000 and take home only half a gate this size. The last time we came here it cost us $6,000 and we spent two nights. This time it cost $7,000 for one."

So, what it all boils down to, in Bush's own words, is money. UCLA boasts world-class athletes, such as 1976 Olympians Millard Hampton, the silver medalist in the 200 meters, and

Cyclists to meet

The University Cycling team will hold a meeting at 6:30 tonight in the EMU. The room will be posted.

James Owens, sixth in the 100 meter high hurdles, and what is perhaps the best weather anywhere. Yet, against Stanford at UCLA's Drake Stadium, April 2, only 4,500 people attended.

"The trouble down there is that we can't get any publicity," Bush lamented, noting that with the Lakers, Dodgers, Kings and pro tennis, UCLA's tracksters get lost in the shuffle.

Oregon Coach Bill Dellinger knows well the tune that Bush is singing.

"We sold about 1,600 season tickets last year and only about 600 this year," according to Dellinger. "The reason we sold so many last year was because of the Olympic trials and everyone was so up for track then. Next year the NCAA's will be here, so sales should go up again."

Dellinger feels the problem may lie in Eugene being "spoiled" by these big meets and, he adds, "There's a letdown during a year when the schedule doesn't include one of these meets.

"We've got to have a team that's exciting to get people to come here," Dellinger continued. "We can't always be waiting for a big meet for people to come out."

Both coaches would prefer the rivalry continue, but, as Bush says, "It's up to (Oregon and UCLA athletic directors) John Caine and J.D. Morgan."

"I don't like the thought of not meeting each other anymore," Bush says. "This is such a great track town. I want to come up here every year ... it would be great for our team to come up here every year."

"It would be a shame to let this meet go by the wayside because of finances," Dellinger agrees. "I'd hate to see this meet end, especially since we're now getting so close to them. We're going to get them yet...."

sprinters and I can't get any long distance runners.

"If Bill gets a good sprinter from the Northern part of the country who's used to this kind of weather, he can do well; he can win the big meets," Bush noted. "He almost did today."

Despite UCLA's imbalance in running events, Bush isn't afraid to speak of his team's chances of winning the NCAA title.

"I honestly feel we have a shot at nationals," he said. "If we don't perform better than this, we're in trouble, but we've got world-class athletes and that's what it takes to win the national championship."
