

Spring get-together slated

The sociology department will hold a "spring get-together" Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. in 204 Condon. According to Dick Gale, a sociology associate professor, the meeting will consist of informal discussion between sociology undergrads and every faculty member concerning proposed major requirements, something the sociology department currently does not have.

The requirements would include a research methods course and a social theory course, according to Gale.

Also covered at the meeting will be the possibility of the department hiring some new professors. Current faculty members are seeking input on what areas of specialization the department should attempt to fill with new professors.

Gale expects the turnout to the get-together to be large, as cider and donuts will be served.

Education discussion set

Richard Fehnel, director of the Non-traditional Learners in Post-secondary Education Project, under the sponsorship of the Oregon Educational Coordinating Commission, will address the Democratic Forum at noon today at the Asia Gardens restaurant, 44 E. Seventh Ave.

The topic of his discussion will be "The Changing Character of Higher Education in the United States and Oregon." Fehnel will specifically discuss the conditions which are leading to rapid changes in the nature of education at this University and elsewhere. He will present a number of alternatives which institutions of higher education have adopted in response to these changes.

Weyerhaeuser tour on tap

New American Movement is sponsoring a tour of Weyerhaeuser's Springfield plant this afternoon. Cars will leave the corner of 14th Avenue and Kincaid Street at 1:30 p.m. The tour lasts from 2 to 4 p.m. Interested persons are encouraged to bring their cars in case they are needed.

Weyerhaeuser is a major Oregon employer in the forest products industry. Weyerhaeuser holds the world's largest private inventory of timber — 5.8 million acres, of which 1.1 million acres are in Oregon. Weyerhaeuser ranks first in timber production, second in pulp production, paper and packaging, and third in plywood production nationally.

Prof awarded fellowship

Thomas Dyke, assistant professor of chemistry at the University, has received a Sloan Research Fellowship of $14,800 for a two-year period.

The fellowships awarded by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, are awarded to faculty members who are less than 32 years of age who are doing basic research in chemistry, physics, mathematics, neurosciences and certain interdisciplinary fields. The awards, which have been made for 22 years, are intended to provide flexible research support to particularly promising young scientists early in their careers.

Candidates are nominated by senior scientists familiar with their work and reviewed by a panel of distinguished scientists.

Archaeologist traces history of far west

Luther Cressman has spent more than four decades studying a chapter in the Northwest's past which is unfamiliar even to many historians.

The self-trained archaeologist and founder of the University's anthropology department and Museum of Natural History has compiled a "prehistory" of far-western North America.

The book, entitled "Prehistory of the Far West," traces ancient people and cultures in the area between about 13,000 years ago and the arrival of white explorers and settlers in the early part of the 19th century.

The work is the first book-length "synthesis" of the prehistory of far-western North America, according to University anthropology professor C. Melvin Aikens.

Cressman, 79, who retired from full-time teaching in 1963 and was later named emeritus professor of anthropology, came to the University in 1929 from a college teaching job in New York. He received a doctorate in sociology from Columbia University in 1925.

Retirement class offered

Openings remain in the "Looking Forward to Retirement" class offered by Lane Community College spring term.

Interested persons can register during the third class meeting Wednesday. The course is held Wednesdays from 7:30 to 10 p.m. The 10-week course features speakers in special areas to help middle-aged couples begin making retirement decisions. G.G. Goldthwaite is the coordinator of the class.

To register, attend the class which is held at LCC in Room 303 of the Health Building. The fee is $10 per individual or couple.

For more information, contact the Adult Education Office at LCC, 747-4501, ext. 323.

MEETINGS

An OSPIRG candidate's meeting is scheduled for 3:30 today in the EMU, room to be posted. It will be followed by a local board meeting at 4, also in the EMU, room to be posted.

The Hawaii Club will meet at 7 tonight in the McClain dormitory lounge. Foremost on the agenda is the upcoming luau. All members are asked to attend.

Local boat slips open

Applications for boat slips at Baker Bay on Dorena Reservoir are now being accepted by the Lane County Parks Division. Boat slips will be assigned by lottery. Interested boaters have until April 22 to apply to the County Parks Division.

Application forms may be mailed to boaters. Requests should be forwarded to the Parks Office at 125 East 8th Ave. in the County Public Service Building. Application forms will automatically be sent to last year's slip holders, but they will not receive any preference for slips.

Only three boat slips remain open at Lowell Park on Dexter Lake. Applicants may contact the marina operator in Lowell at 937-3574 for information. The water level at Dexter is expected to provide a full season of operation for the county park facility.

Boat slips at Orchard Point and Richardson on Fern Ridge may be let at the end of April if normal rainfall levels are received. If rainfall is normal through May, the Corps of Engineers estimates the lake will fill to 81 per cent of capacity or about 371 feet. That would produce an estimated 6.5 feet of water in the marina.

However, irrigation begins in May and will result in lowering the water level which may cause the Parks Division to issue slips on a month-to-month basis. Boaters who held slips last year at the two parks' marinas on Fern Ridge will be given preference for slips this year.

The Parks Division will not be accepting applications for Fern Ridge slips until further notice.

Nursery taking applicants

The First Methodist Church Cooperative Nursery School is now taking applications for a tuition scholarship for a child to begin in its class for three-year-olds in September. The 18-member class meets Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and offers the children fairly unstructured experiences in art, music, large and small motor skills, games, imaginative play and "just getting along." Parents (including those of children on scholarship) are required to work at school approximately two mornings per month. Attendance at a monthly evening meeting is also required.

The scholarship will be awarded on the basis of financial need, parents' willingness to be part of a co-op and parents' interest in and commitment to this type of pre-school experience.

To apply, or to suggest a possible applicant, please contact Darnell Mandelblatt, 1766 Jefferson St., 344-3457.

IRS service extended

Internal Revenue Service offices throughout Oregon will be open later as the April 15 filing deadline approaches to assist taxpayers in preparing their Federal returns.
