

Seminar examines jobs

Accounting-related job possibilities for business graduates will be the topic of a seminar Thursday.

The Industrial Accounting Seminar, sponsored by accounting fraternity Beta Alpha Psi, will begin at 8 p.m. in the EMU, room to be posted. Four guests from major local and Oregon industries will talk about how accounting-related jobs are found, job content and other related issues.

Explaining that the seminar is designed for all business graduates, Beta Alpha Psi Pres. Bill Shirley says non-accounting students are often unaware of opportunities available in the accounting departments of industrial firms.

The speakers will be John Viestenz and Jacque Mode of International Paper, John Brown of EWEB and Roger Squire of Bohemia Lumber Company.

Center plans gambling night

One dollar will buy $1,000 worth of gambling fun and a chance to win dinners, records, gift certificates or a night for two at the Inn at Spanish Head, at 3-D Children's Multi-Cultural Center's Las Vegas Nite, Saturday at 7 p.m. in the EMU.

The ticket price will entitle holders to $1,000 in play money to be used for various games.

Bidding will begin at 10:30 p.m. for prizes with the play money collected at gambling tables.

City schedules kite workshops

The Eugene Parks and Recreation Department is offering kite building and flying workshops Thursday, Saturday and Sunday for youth and adults.

The Thursday workshop will be from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Atrium Building and is directed at adults. The Saturday workshop will last from 10 a.m. to noon at the Sheldon Community Center, 2445 Wil-lakenzie Road and is for both youth and adults.

Interested persons should pre-register by calling 687-5353. There will be a 50 cent charge for supplies.

Sunday from 1 to 3:30 p.m. there will be a free kite-flying workshop at Amazon Field. No pre-registration is required.

Body work program set

Local body work therapist Carol Green will conduct a women's sexuality workshop Saturday.

Reservations are necessary to secure a place in the all-day workshop. Green has offered a number of similar workshops to Eugene women.

Green uses a variety of meditational techniques and body work forms designed to get women in touch with their sexual selves. Breath work, guided fantasy, massage and yoga are among the methods she employs.

Green is also available for individual counseling and body work sessions. Green uses a sliding fee scale of between $15 and $25 per participant. For more information and reservations, contact Green, 344-4455.

Wilderness show slated

"Window on Wilderness," a 55-minute multi-media program involving hundreds of wilderness images will be presented by its creator and producer, Tom McBride, Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Room 150, Geology.

McBride also will lead forums on environmental philosophy Thursday at 2 p.m. and on photography Friday at 10:30 a.m. in the EMU, rooms to be posted.

McBride's appearance is co-sponsored by the Outdoor Program, SEARCH, Survival Center, Honors College, Environmental Studies Center, Craft Center and Cultural Forum.

McBride is a photographer-artist and naturalist who was judged "Photographer of the Year" by the Montana Professional Photographer's Association in 1973 and has been featured in articles in such publications as "New Age Journal" and Kodak's "Studio Light."

Sailors meet to plan regatta

Regattas and elections will be the two major topics of discussion at the University Sailing Club meeting Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in Room 115, Gerlinger. Nominations for commodore, vice-commodore, staff commodore and treasurer will be taken at the meeting before the vote is taken.

The Regatta is Saturday at Dexter Lake. Persons should meet at the Gerlinger turn-around at noon to arrange car pools.

Energy proposals aired

The Sierra Club's Many Rivers Group and the University Survival Center will sponsor a program on "Northwest Energy Proposals" dealing with current regional energy plans Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the First Congregational Church, 23rd Avenue and Harris Street.

The free public program will feature a number of speakers beginning with Bob Bergstrom, a civil engineer, who will give an overview of the Bonneville Power Administration's (BPA) Environmental impact statement. He will emphasize the recently drafted "Alternative Scenario" which seriously challenges the BPA forecasts for future peak energy requirements.

Ron Eachus and John Bartels from Congressman Jim Weaver's staff will explain provisions in the congressman's bill establishing a Columbia Basin Energy Corporation.

Camilla Pratt, an EWEB member, will talk about a utility proposal to give BPA authority to purchase energy other than hydro (thermal power, for example) from private utilities through federal legislation.

Russian lunch, symposium set

Today is the deadline for luncheon reservations for the third annual Russian and East European Symposium on "The Soviet Union: Dissent and Emigration" to be held in the EMU Saturday afternoon.

The no-host Russian luncheon will start at 11:30 a.m. in Room 167 and end at 1 p.m., when the first speech begins. Cost is $5.50 per person.

Luncheon reservations are limited to 100; for reservations and more information, call Albert Leong, 686-4065 or 4051; or 344-3497.
