

Remember Dad

BOOKS FOR

FATHER

The Age of Uncertainty by John Kenneth Galbraith

Galbraith's particular vision of the history of economic ideas and their consequences written with his accustomed wit, clarity and professional competence. Now the subject of a 13-part series on PBS.

Inner Tennis

by W. Timothy Gallwey

The Inner Game is based on a simple concept — that the key to winning tennis lies inside every player's head, in his ability to concentrate, to thrust his body, to let his game just "happen."

The Camera Never Blinks

by Dan Rather

Rather brings alive the fascinating world of the TV reporter. With immediacy, humor and a marvelous eye for the revealing incident and colorful detail, he tells the behind-the-scenes stories of recent history's stormiest events.

The Gamesman

by Michael Maccoby

A sympathetic and definitive portrait of the new corporate executive. A more dynamic and adventurous leader than his counterpart of the 1950's, the corporate gamesman is flexible, competitive and totally fascinating.

A Field Guide to Pacific States Wildflowers

by Theodore F. Niehaus and Charles L. Ripper

The Pacific States Area, with the wide variety of ecological habitats occurring in its mountains, valleys and seacoast, has the greatest number of flowering plant species in the US. The wildflowers described in this Field guide are those most likely to be encountered and are presented so that the user can easily identify what he finds.

Balloon launch to raise dollars

The Oregon Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC) has announced that on July 4 a lot of Oregon hot air will be shipped off to other parts of the nation via the "World's Greatest Balloon Race."

Local ARC representatives from all of Oregon's counties will be participating in the effort, by selling the balloons and entry stubs for a $1 price tag. After the balloon is purchased, it will be tagged and registered with a number. The stub that is attached to the balloon will read, "If you find this stub, please return it to OARC at 3085 River Road North, Salem, Oregon 97303." Also stated is the deadline date of Sept. 15. The stub that is returned from the farthest point from Portland by that date will bear the number of the winner of $500.

The retarded Citizens group, however, is not all hot air. They are the largest volunteer organization in the Pacific Northwest — and this is their first statewide funding effort. The proceeds will be used to enable retarded to obtain job training, vacations in special summer camps and also for the prevention of child abuse.

Slides detail study abroad

A slide presentation on opportunities to study in England and France will be shown at 4 p.m. today in the EMU, room to be posted. Students interested in studying in these countries are invited to attend.

The University recently joined the Northwest Interinstitutional Council on Study Abroad (NICSA) and, as a result, students may study undergraduate liberal arts and humanities courses in London, and Avignon, France.

Courses are offered fall, winter and spring terms. While on the program, students are registered at the University of Oregon and receive full credit while abroad. Instruction is in English.

Students should be at least sophomores and will probably live with host families while abroad. Cost is approximately $1,300 per term, not including transportation.

For more information, contact the international student services office, Room 172, Oregon Hall, ext. 3206.

...et al Demos say no to nukes

The University Democrats at a regular Tuesday meeting passed a resolution to oppose any relaxation of the standards for the siting of nuclear power plants.

The group also opposes the transfer of the standard setting power from the Energy Facility Siting Council to the State Legislature and urges Gov. Bob Straub and Rep Jack Sumner, D-Heppner, not to introduce a bill which would cause that shift of authority.

The group also passed a resolution to support Senate Bill 345 concerning a state and local government boycott on goods from countries which participate in whaling.

In other business; the University Democrats elected new officers. They are Kathleen Hostick, chair; Scott Spaan, vice-chair; Ed Marihart, secretary and David McTeague, treasurer.

The group also issued a "chairpersonship proclamation" supporting Mark Cogan for the State Board of Higher Education position being vacated by Valerie McIntyre.

Freud papers considered

Papers focusing on Sigmund Freud and literature are now being considered for presentation at the third symposium in the Pathfinders in Human Personality Series for October 1977.

The paper selected on Freud and literature will complete a student trilogy; the two papers selected to date center on Freud and Marx, and Freud and religion.

While the first two symposia in the series have celebrated the lives and works of Carl Jung and Alfred Adler, this fall the focus will be on the theory of Freud and the psychoanalytic tradition.

Since the series has established a tradition of combining student presentations with scholars distinguished in the field, students are encouraged to submit papers for consideration. Papers will be selected on the basis of whether they are:

- In keeping with the historical perspective of the symposium and addressing theory rather than practice.

- Complementary of other scheduled presentations.

Exemplary of clarity and overall scholarship.

Appropriate for a 20-minute to one-hour presentation.

The series is sponsored by the Division of Developmental Studies and Services (DDS). For more information, contact Jan Nakagawa, Pathfinders chair, DDS, 686-5501.

Advisers' workshop set

A four-day workshop to assist high school newspaper advisers and journalism teachers is scheduled this summer at the journalism school on the University campus.

Mary Hartman, assistant professor of journalism, will coordinate the workshop. She will bring in local journalism professionals to speak at the workshop.

The workshop is planned for people with little or no experience in putting together a high school newspaper.

The workshop is scheduled for June 21 to 24. Sessions are from 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. each day. Tuition is $102 and people wishing to participate must file a registration request with the registrar's office or the journalism school.

CBs tagged

A CB radio/property marking clinic is scheduled for Saturday at the 4-J bus garage at 20th Avenue and Oak Street, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Representatives from Law Enforcement Explorers Post 501, Lane County Sheriff's Department, and the Eugene Police Department will be present to help people mark their CB radios and other property. Engravers will be available to be used at the garage or to be checked out.
