

Air pollution experts start vacuum job

Lane County air pollution experts are cleaning city streets to learn the source and type of Eugene street-related pollution.

Six Eugene-Springfield streets were vacuumed by the Lane Regional Air Pollution Authority (LRAPA) Wednesday and today to collect dirt and dust samples as part of a regional air quality study. The samples will then be analyzed by air pollution experts.

The vacuuming, to be done by a large industrial-size vacuum sweeper, will take 30 to 45 minutes per street. LRAPA crews will block off 100-foot sections of the designated streets temporarily during the project.

Springfield streets sampled Wednesday were Third Street between North A and B streets at 8:30 a.m., South A Street between 4th and 5th streets at 9:30 a.m. and Olympic Street between 11th and 12th streets at 11 a.m.

The Eugene streets to be vacuumed today are Willamette Street between 12th and 13th Avenues at 6 a.m., Garfield Street north of West Second Avenue at 8:30 a.m. and Cleveland Street south of West 19th Avenue at 11 a.m.

To validate the test, the LRAPA will re-sample the same streets next week.
